RESIGNATION OF HUERTA A MISTAKE

He Will Neither Retire Nor Leave City, Stated Provisional President.

MAY ANNOUNCE CANDIDACY

Official Washington Concerned Over Attitude of Great Britain—May Make Diplomatic Investigation of Conditions.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Throughout the day officials heard various reports and rumors that Provisional President Huerta of Mexico, had resigned or intended to do so, that he had secretly left the capital and that General Blanquet would succeed him.

The State Department received so man inquiries that it cabled Charge O'Shaughnessy for information.

The receipt this afternoon of a positive statement from Mexico City that Huerta did not intend to resign somewhat clarified the situation, though administration officials still hoped for the ultimate elimination of the present provisional President. There had been little disposition at any time, however, to credit the report that Huerta actually had subhitted his resignation to his cabinet, and that it was refused because of no successor able to cope with the situation could be found.

Officials here declared it inconceivable that Huerta should submit his resignation to a cabinet of his own choosing with any sincere intention of having it accepted. Among Constitutionalists here the report was construed as meaning merely that Huerta had taken occasion to point out that he alone was able to deal with the critical state of affairs. They believe he may even use that argument as a basis for becoming a candidate next week, in the election set for October 26th.

Dispatches from Charge O'Shaughnessy today were on routine subjects.

Comparatively few Americans are left in Torreon, Asarco and Velardena, according to other information received at the State Department today and the difficulty of getting foreigners out of danger in places where they were completely cut off from communication appears to have passed.

The unconfirmed reports of Huerta's unconditional retirement today also hinted that Blanquet, minister of war, might succeed him. Blanquet was one of the group that acted with Huerta in the downfall of Madero, and his succession probably would not be approved here.

The attitude of Great Britain, according to those who know the views of the Washington administration, is causing some concern. American officials showed some disappointment to learn that Sir Lionel Carden presented his credentials to Huerta the day after he had proclaimed himself as dictator.

It is possible that diplomatic inquiries may be made through Ambassador Page as to the intentions of the British foreign office.

Huerta Declares Himself.

Mexico City, Oct. 18.—Provisional President Huerta has not resigned nor has he fled from the capitol. When seen at the National Palace at 5 o'clock this afternoon he said he had no intention of doing either.

"When I resign," said General Huerta, "it will be to seek a resting place six feet in the soil. When I flee the capital it will be to shoulder a rifle and take my place in the ranks to fight the rebels."

This was President Huerta's answer to queries as to whether there was any foundation for reports which have been freely circulated in the capital and have found their way to the United States.

General Huerta looked the picture of health and vigor. He greeted the Associated Press correspondent with extreme cordiality, asked for a cigarette and listened to the explanation of the motive for the visit.

"So it is reported that I have fled?" the President said. "You can see for yourself that I am here at my post. To say that I have resigned or intend to resign is an absolute falsehood. I have no intention of resigning.

Will Have Eelection.

"Should the elections, which will be held as I have promised, indicate another for the Presidency, I shall step aside. Until that time you will find me here complying with my promises to the nation, which are to re-establish peace, within the law if possible, but to re-establish peace."

President Huerta interspersed his talk with anecdotes illustrative of his points.

"Another time," said the President, "I have money for my requirements. Do you think I haven't. Where did I get it? My secret! he responded, tapping his chest with a satisfied smile. But I have it."

On the question of pacification he declared that before the end of the month, the government would have retaken Torreon and made headway towards the pacification of the State of Durrango. In reply to a suggestion that further rumors were afloat to the effect that a troop train proceeding to Torreon had been blown up, he exclaimed:

"More lies! Nothing of the kind has occurred."

In the opinion of General Huerta, the sensational rumors have originated with the enemies of the administration at the capital and elsewhere for the effect that they would have with the revolutionists.

General Huerta is working from 15 to 18 hours daily, sleeping at odd times when fatigue overtakes him. He

FAMILY DOCTOR GIVES TESTIMONY

DEFENDANT LAUGHS IN COURT

Young Ladies Tell of Mrs. Eaton's Urging Them to Swear Her Husband Flirted With Them. Refuse Request.

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 18.—Medical testimony intended to establish that Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton was murdered by poisoning, and evidence of his wife's jealousy, were introduced by the State in the trial of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton today.

Dr. Joseph G. Frame, the family physician, told of attending the admiral the day before he died. Miss Grace Byram Howard and Miss Jessie R. Collamore testified that Mrs. Eaton had asked them to accuse the admiral of having tried to flirt with them. Neither had been annoyed by attentions from the admiral, they said. Mrs. Eaton appeared much amused at the testimony of the young women and at times laughed aloud.

Dr. Frame said he was summoned to the Eaton home on March 7th and found the admiral suffering "excruciating pains" supposedly from eating too freely of fresh pork. At 5:50 the following morning Mrs. Eaton telephoned him that her husband was dead.

"I at once turned the case over to Medical Examiner Osgood," said Dr. Frame, "because I could not understand why the admiral should die. I did not think he would die when I saw him the day before."

Later Mrs. Eaton told the witness that she had been unable to give her husband any medicine because his stomach would not retain it.

Duke Postmastership Decided Upon, No Adjournment of Congress.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—Representative Godwin settled the postmastership at Duke today when he sent a letter to Postmaster General Burleson,recommending the appointment of E. S. Yarborough to succeed F. M. McKay, the incumbent. There were a number of candidates for the place but after reading all of the endorsements, Mr. Godwin decided that Yarborough was the best fitted man for the job. A leading business man of Duke wrote to Mr. Godwin and said that Yarborough had been a Democrat since the time when the bushes ran wild where the present town site now lies.

There will be no adjournment of Congress until the currency bill is passed, according to the belief of Representative Pou. Mr. Pou is very close to President Wilson and he made the above statement today after talking with President Wilson. As Mr. Pou is considered an authority on what is happening at the White House, his statement is taken to mean that Mr. Wilson will not consent to an adjournment under any circumstances until the currency measure is put upon the statute books.

A postoffice inspector has been sent to Grissom, Granville county, to look into the fitness of the several applicants for the postmastership. The job pays less than $180 per year and, therefore, an examination will not be held.

President Wilson stated today that he would be unable to stop in Charlotte when he makes the trip to Mobile, Ala., to attend the Southern Commercial Congress meeting. He was invited several days ago by Senator Overman and a delegation of Charlotte men.

Grove Bell, of Edenton, upon the recommendation of Senator Overman, has been appointed Fish Culturalist.

Glenn Is Slated For Commission

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, Oct. 18.—The Washington Times tonight in its leading front page story says: "Former Governor Robert B. Glenn, of North Carolina, has been chosen a member of the Inter-State Commerce Commission to succeed Judge Charles A. Prouty, of Vermont, resigned, to take charge of the physical valuation of railroads for the Commission.

"No official announcement has yet been made of Mr. Glenn's selection, but it was learned today on high authority that his nomination is assured. Governor Glenn was a classmate of President Wilson. He is a Bryan man, and his record has been that of an anti-railroad man. Some interesting North Carolina politics are involved with his appointment, for the reason that he has been regarded as an aspirant for the Senate to succeed Senator Overman, and Senator Overman is glad to get him out of the way by having him put on the Inter-State Commerce Commission."

The White House officially refused to confirm or deny the story. P. R. A.

PRESENT SULZER WITH LOVING CUP

Admiring Friends Gather at Executive Mansion, to Honor Former Governor.

MRS. SULZER MAKES TALK

Much Enthusiasm Displayed by Crowd Who Cheered Impeached Man to Echo—"Hurrah for the Next President."

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 18.—There was red fire, oratory and music by a brass band at the executive mansion tonight, when several hundred admirers of William Sulzer called to present him with a loving cup.

Sulzer started to shake hands with all his callers, but he never completed the task. They crowded around him and refused to move. Some one said a few words of consolation to him only to be interrupted by Mrs. Sulzer:

"The action of the court is the least of our troubles," she said.

The crowd began to cheer. "We'll have you back here next year, Bill!" one man yelled.

Another enthusiast cried, "Hurrah for the next President of the United States," whereupon there was more cheering. Cheers for Mrs. Sulzer followed.

Chester C. Platt, Sulzer's secretary, read a speech, assuring Sulzer that he had been removed because he would not obey the bosses. Mention of the name of Charles F. Murphy brought hisses. "Lynch him!" shouted one man at the mention of the name of an Assemblyman. The cup presented to Sulzer was inscribed "To William Sulzer. A Victim of Corrupt Bossism, October 17, 1913."

Sulzer, in a speech, reiterated his assertion that his removal was due to his displeasing Tammany Hall.

"Had I obeyed the boss, instead of my oath of office, I would still be the Governor, and the 'organization' would be patting me on the back and telling the people that I was a second Andrew Jackson," he said. "My condemnation by the bosses intended to serve as a warning and a precedent to all who may follow me, but I believe my fate will have a good effect in the end, and do more than any other single thing I could do to forever destroy the terrors of corrupt "bossism" in the State of New York."

Letter from Roosevelt.

A letter which Col. Roosevelt wrote Sulzer October 3rd last, was given out by Platt. It was in response to one from Sulzer, telling Roosevelt that on advice of counsel, Sulzer could not permit a letter he wrote the former President regarding the impeachment case be made public. The letter follows:

"I thank you for your letter, and I am sorry that I have to leave before your defense is made public. I wish it had been possible for you to write to me the letter of which you wrote, giving me the definite facts as to the effect by Murphy and his associates to bind you to their interests against the cause of honesty and decency in popular government, and their promise of immunity to you from impeachment if you would cease your attacks on the men who have been guilty of misconduct in connection with the public office and if you would cease demand for direct primaries. Such a letter giving me in detail the facts, would, of course, have enabled me to speak much more strongly than I have spoken."

Platt also gave out copies of several telegrams Sulzer had received offering him lecture dates. A Kansas City man bid $10,000 for one lecture; a New Yorker $20,000 for lectures; another New Yorker $10,000 for 50, and a Chicago promoter topped the list with $100,000 for a season. As yet the former Governor has closed no contracts for public addresses.

This was the last night Sulzer occupied the executive mansion. He will leave tomorrow morning for Cooperstown, where he will spend three or four days in a Summer hotel owned by a friend. He will be accompanied only by Mrs. Sulzer. From Cooperstown Sulzer will go to the mountains for a few days, probably and then return to New York.

WILL MAKE NO CHANGE.

Proposition to Establish New Church Court Rejected.

New York, Oct. 18.—The Protestant Episcopal Church will make no change for at least three years in its method of judging heresy charges.

The House of Deputies at the general convention refused today by a close vote to accept a recommendation that a final court of appeals be established to determine questions of doctrine, faith and worship affecting the clergy.

The House of Deputies also adopted a resolution providing for the establishment of a publicity bureau for the Episcopal Church.

At an executive session of the House of Bishops two prelates re-considered their resignations. Bishop J. M. Francis, of Indianapolis, agreed to continue at his post, and Bishop Edward William Osborn, of Springfield, Ill., decided to remain at the request of the Episcopate.

WILSON CONFERS WITH SEN. NELSON

And Other Leading Republicans on Banking and Currency Committee

LEADERS ARE CONFIDENT

President Will Talk With Many Republicans on Subject and Expects Open Way to Victory —Not Impede Legislation.

Washington, Oct4 18.—President Wilson has further cleared the path for currency reform in the Senate through conferences opened today with the Republicans on the Senate Committee now in charge of the bill.

As a result of a conference with Senator Nelson, which it is believed will be followed by talks with other Republicans, the President has received assurances that the Republicans are not holding up legislation nor trying to impede action on the currency bill in the Senate.

Democratic leaders expressed confidence today that the Senate committee would be able to come to such an agreement upon the currency reform measure as would insure its unanimous support by both Republicans and Democrats. This assurance was based on the knowledge that no effort is to be made to draw party lines on the bill, but that the Republicans are to be fully consulted in amending and re-drafting the measure.

The opening of direct negotiations with Republican Senators, it is understood was decided on by the President because of suggestions from outside sources that they were endeavoring to delay action in the committee. While no effort has been made to fixe a date for the reporting of the bill, it is understood the President has been assured that progress in the committee will be as rapid as possible.

Efforts to bring about a recess of Congress appear to have abated somewhat and House leaders apparently have given up any hope of getting away from Washington for any stated period.

While the President would consent to a definite recess of Congress if the Senate Committee would agree to a date for completing the currency bill, members of the Senate admitted today there was little chance for such a compact being made.

It is expected the committee will spend at least three weeks after October 25th in discussion and amendment of the bill.

An informal conference between members of the Senate Committee and a delegation of bankers from several cities in Virginia was held today. The bankers expressed their views of the administration bill and of amendments they would like incorporated.

An amendment to allow the proposed Federal reserve banks to issue all travelers checks such as are now issued by private banks was suggested to the Senate today by John Overmire, of Indianapolis, in a petition presented by Senator Kern.

A Wilson Farmer Killed By Negro

(Special Star Telegram.)

Wilson, N. C., Oct. 18.—Ross Flowers, a well-to-do farmer of the county, was shot and instantly killed this afternoon by a negro, Tom Debren. The murder took place on the public road seven miles from here. Mr. Flowers was en route to Wilson with a little nephew when they met the negro in the road. Some words passed and the negro fired a load from a shotgun, instantly killing Mr. Flowers. The negro escaped to a swamp. There is no known cause for the murder.

AUTO ACCIDENT AT WILSON.

Capt. T. M. Washington and Mr. Ashley Young Were Injured.

Wilson, N. C., Oct. 18.—State Senator T. M. Washington had a narrow escape this afternoon when a switch engine on the Atlantic Coast Line struck the auto being driven by Mr. Washington. The car was badly damaged and Senator Washington and Mr. Ashley Young were thrown out but were uninjured.

OUTLINES

Provisional President Huerta has stated that he would neither retire or flee from Mexico City, both of which he was reported as doing.

President Wilson has conferred with several Republicans upon the currency question and is confident that that party will not try to block its passage.

Mrs. Pankhurst and her traveling companion have been detained by the Ellis Island immigration authorities as undesirable aliens.

A bill has passed the Senate prohibiting the sending of money from one State to another for political purposes.

Several hundred friends of William Sulzer gathered at the executive mansion last night and presented him with a loving cup while they cheered him to the echo.

New York markets: Flour barely steady. Wheat irregular; No. 2 red 94 to 97 1-2; No. 1 Northern Duluth 93 3-4. Rosin quiet. Turpentine steady. Money on call nominal, no loans. Spot cotton quiet: middling uplands 13.80; middling gulf 14.05.

Tammany Chief Denounced by Sulzer

Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, was scorched by Governor Sulzer, upon final report on the latter's impeachment Friday evening. The outgoing executive issued a statement in which he denounced the tribunal which had removed him as "Murphy's high court of infamy."

"Murphy controlled the Assembly and ordered the impeachment," he said. "He controlled most of the members of the court and dictated procedure and wrote the judgment. He was the judge and the jury; the prosecutor and the bailiff. A horse thief in frontier days," he said, "would have received a squarer deal."

CAMPAIGNING BILL PASSED

Moneys for Campaign Purposes Cannot be Secretly Sent from One State to Another—Prevent Wholesale Financing.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The first direct result of the Congressional investigation of campaign expenditures came today when the Senate passed Senator Clapp's bill prohibiting the sending of campaign funds from one State to another.

If the House approves the measure, it will put a rigid limitation, not only upon the activities of general political interests, but also upon the work of such organizations as the National Association of Manufacturers, the American Federation of Labor and the National Association for Woman Suffrage.

The bill prohibits the carrying or sending of funds from one State to another to be used in the election of President, Vice President, presidential electors or Congressmen. The Senate passed the bill today without debate. In previous discussions it was made clear that its purpose was to prevent the financing of campaigns in a secret manner by organizations or individuals who did not come directly under the campaign publicity law.

The proposed new law would not prohibit the present work of National political committees so long as they make public reports of all contributions received and expended. Practically all the National committees send contributions to the State committees of their parties during a National election.

It is believed the measure would curtail soliciting of campaign funds in money centers, and greatly curb general campaign activities on the part of persons or organizations that might be directly interested in the outcome of elections.

A further amendment of campaign contribution laws was proposed today by Senator Sterling in a bill to prevent all corporations from contributing to campaigns for nominations, as they are now prohibited from contributing to election campaigns.

EXPECT CAR SHORTAGE.

Railroads and Shippers Urged to Give Attention.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Imminence of a serious car shortage on American railroads induced the Inter-State Commerce Commission to issue today a vigorous appeal directed to both railways and shippers to give "close attention to methods of loading, unloading, moving and promptly returning to use the cars now available."

Complaints received from all parts of the country indicate the danger of a car shortage. The commission believes that "the present supply of cars is sufficient for all purposes" but that it will prove adequate for the movement of all traffic offered only in the event of its being employed fully and promptly.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The revenue cutter Unalga, which has heretofore cruised around Fort Townsend, Wash., was today ordered to San Francisco, to replace the cutter McCullough, which is to be repaired

IMPRESSIVE SCENE OF JOY

Eleven Woman Survivors Reach New York—One Finds Her Three Children Whom She Had Given Up as Lost.

New York, Oct. 18.—The arrival today of 11 women saved from the burning Volturno by the freighter Rappahannock was the signal for the most impressive sceneof joy witnessed here since the rescuing ueet began bringing in their cargoes of survivors.

The women were transferred at Halifax from the Rappahannock to the liner Florizel.

Ten of them were young girls. The 11th was Mrs. Peia Polack and the scene at the dock as she met her three children whem she had given up for lost, brought tears to the eyes of the immigrant officers.

Mrs. Polack was the last woman to leave the Volturno. She was lowered into one of the Rappahannock's boats, believing that her children already were there. When the boat put off from the blazing ship and she found that the little ones were left behind she became hysterical. Here for the first time she learned that the children were saved by one of the boats from the Kroonland.

Decorated With Medals.

Havre, France, Oct. 18.—Officers and crew of the French liner Touraine who took part in the rescue of the passengers of the Volturno, were decorated with medals by the French government.

Volturno Still Burning.

New York, Oct. 18.—The ill-starred Volturno still was afloat and afire on October 14th, five days after flames broke out in her forward compartments, according to officers of the steamer St. Louis, which reached here today.

Mistook Medicine Took Fatal Dose

(Special Star Telegram.)

Tarboro, N. C., Oct. 18.—William T. Gardner, a prominent farmer of Edgecombe county, died today at Pinetops, of mercurial poison, taken by mistake for headache medicine. Recently Mr. Gardner underwent a minor operation and two nights later took the fatal dose which caused his death, despite the efforts of the best medical aid. At the time of the accident, Mr. Gardner was suffering from a severe headache and arose in the dark and took what he supposed was headache medicine. The mistake was discovered several hours later and every known effort was made to kill the poison but of no avail. He suffered intensely at first and then seemed apparently better until the end came suddenly this morning.

Mr. Gardner was a prosperous farmer and is well known throughout this section. He is survived by his wife and six children: Misses Ora, Eva and Nell, and Messrs. Russell, John and Paul, all at home. The deceased was 58 years of age. The funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon.

MRS. PANKHURST BEING DETAINED

British Suffragette Found to be Undesirable Alien by Ellis Island Authorities.

DEPORTATION IS ORDERED

Miss Dorr, Her Traveling Companion, Stays With Her at Detention Headquarters Regardless of Fact She is Free.

New York, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, foremost of English militant suffragettes, who reached America today on the liner Provence to appeal for the sympathy and support of the American people in the "revolution" for which she says she is fighting, is a prisoner tonight at Ellis Island under order of deportation awaiting the issue of an appeal which is expected to be decided tomorrow at Washington.

With Miss Rheta Dorr, another of the arriving English militants who was "voluntarily detained," that she might be with her leader, Mrs. Pankhurst occupies the commissioner's suite of two rooms in the administration building. While presenting an appearance of bareness, the rooms are comfortably furnished and are the best in the building. They are the ones in which Cipriano Castro, former Venezuelan dictator, was detained while his case was pending. From the broad windows overlooking the harbor, Mrs. Pankhurst can see the statue of liberty.

Mrs. Pankhurst was detained by an immigration inspector on her arrival here and was at once taken before a special board of inquiry, which, after examining her, decided because she had been convicted abroad for acts involving moral turpitude she was an undesirable alien. The board therefore ordered her exclusion.

Appeal Taken.

An appeal immediately was entered and Immigration Commissioner Caminetti is to hear argument on her case tomorrow in Washington.

Mrs. Pankhurst's representatives here expressed confidence that whatever might be done about the appeal the English militant would be released under bond for three weeks so that she might fill her speaking engagements here. Mrs. Pankhurst tonight had still another recourse under consideration.

"Of course, even if the appeal fails we still have the habeas corpus proceeding," she said.

Because of uncertainties surrounding the immediate course of the proceedings in her case, the meeting at Madison Square Garden set for tomorrow night, at which Mrs. Pankhurst was to speak, was postponed today until Monday night. Mrs. Pankhurst seemed to have little doubt that she would be freed in time to speak at that meeting and then carry her message to the people of this country. She was on the point of starting a "hunger strike" when she heard that the deportation order was issued. But on learning that a speedy decision of the appeal was probable, she broke fast and swallowed with evident relish a chicken sandwich and a pot of tea, which she had requested.

Mrs. Pankhurst Talks.

"I am confident that whatever happens it will be good for the cause in which I am interested," she said. "I have great faith in the American people's sense of justice and fair play, and I know they want to give me a chance to defend the movement which has been so misrepresented. There is no doubt that my detention is unjust."

Three things in connection with the opposition of Mrs. Pankhurst seemed to arouse her indignation. One was that she was accused of "moral turpitude," another that the proceedings were in secret and the third, that her "political opponents" in England had in her belief, furnished much of the material used by the special board in questions put to her. Her examiners were courteous, "more or less" she admitted.

"The climax came," she declared, "when they said I was guilty of moral turpitude. Then I said, 'Your ancestors were guilty of moral turpitude when they threw the tea into Boston harbor.' I reminded them that Chas. Stewart Parnell, Michael Davitt and John Redmond, Irish political leaders, who were convicted under the same act of Parliament under which I was convicted, were received here with open arms, although they destroyed property and were guilty of acts of a political nature and were convicted by Parliament for them."

Gets Hot in Collar.

Mrs. Pankhurst, according to the stenographic report of her examination, admitted she had made incendiary speeches in England, but firmly denied she had ever advocated the taking of life.

"I have made speeches urging riot and rebellion, and the destruction of property when necessary," the minutes quote her as saying. "I always have urged that care be taken against the destruction of human life." Her object in coming here, she said, was that which the ancestors of present day Americans had in visiting Europe in the time of the revolution—"for support and sympathy" she freely admitted she had several times come in contact with the English authorities and been imprisoned.

After the questioning ended and the newspapermen were permitted to talk with her, Mrs. Pankhurst was quick to register her opposition to "star chamber proceedings." They had a "bad moral effect," she contended. As to the decision of the board she said:

Moral Turpitude Denied.

"Who is responsible for the action taken by the special board in ordering me deported? I am of the opinion it was done by our political opponents on the other side. I think the minds of the members of the board were made up before I arrived here. My experiences before the board were very painful to me. At the beginning I asked to have a lawyer present to look after my rights, but this was bluntly refused. The board refused to let me make explanations. They interrupted me on almost every word excepting that which I said about the grounds of moral turpitude. I told them they certainly were prejudiced. The board had a copy of the act of Parliament under which I was convicted and most of the questions seemed to me to be prepared or stereotyped. The members of the board did not seem able to define 'moral turpitude.' I did it for them.

"I was severely cross-examined in a manner that I believe was intended to make me fall into a trap. My deportation was ordered specifically on my conviction on an indictment found against me in England as the person who placed a bomb in Lloyd-George's home."

Callers Denied.

Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch and other suffragists who went to Ellis Island early this evening to talk to Mrs. Pankhurst on behalf of Samuel Untermyer, who had volunteered to plead Mrs. Pankhurst's case, they said, were informed that the island was officially closed for the day, and that their interviewer would have to wait until tomorrow.

Herbert Reeves, Mrs. Pankhurst's counsel, spent the latter part of the day consulting authorities to cite to the government officials in arguing Mrs. Pankhurst's cause and taking a copy of the minutes of the inquiry board, left tonight for Washington, where he expects to consult with Commissioner General Caminetti. The argument is expected to be that Mrs. Pankhurst's alleged offenses are political and that the government has no warrant in law for excluding her because of them.

Mrs. Pankhurst's coming has stirred up woman suffrage circles here as few incidents in the history of the suffrage movement have done.

Ready With Bond.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who it has been understood was ready to supply a bond for the English militant, should one be allowed did not appear actively in the case today. Among other suffrage leaders the note of sympathy while sometimes sounded was frequently lacking.

Mrs. Mary G. Hay, president of the woman's suffrage party in this city, declared the organization was not interested in Mrs. Pankhurst's visit. "We are in no sense militants and not in sympathy with Mrs. Pankhurst's ideas." We deplore the action of the United States representatives, however, because it gives Mrs. Pankhurst a lot of undue notoriety and advertising without benefitting the real work of our society in the least."

Many pre-conceived notions of Mrs. Pankhurst's personalities were upset by her appearance and her general attitude as she was taken to Ellis Island and appeared before the inquiry board.

There was no suggestion of the hardy woman who could face self-starvation to gain freedom. The imigration inspectors watching her as she sat in the "well" in the board room, saw a delicate, pale woman of motherly appearance. Her voice as she responded to the formal questions was that of a woman of good breeding. Tonight, weary after her experience of the day, she retired early to all appearances composed for a good night's rest and without worry as to the outcome of her case.

Treated Like the Rest.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Commissioner General of Immigration Caminetti tonight received the papers relative to Mrs. Emmaline Pankhurst by the board of special inquiry at Ellis Island.

Tomorrow, the commissioner and Acting Secretary of Labor Post will take up the record for consideration, but the commissioner said tonight he had no intention of holding a formal hearing of the case Sunday.

"Such a proceeding would involve the holding open not only of the bureau of immigration, but also of the immigration station at Ellis Island and would be quite unprecedented." he said. It appears scarcely likely that final decision of the case will be announced before Monday. Then it will be determined by Commissioner Caminetti and Acting Secretary Post whether Mrs. Pankhurst shall be permitted to land in the United States or, as the Ellis Island board decreed, shall be deported to France, whence she came, for her acts committed "for the cause" in England.

Protests and Appeals.

Protests and appeals on both sides of the celebrated case, couched in terms ranging from legal to extravagantly sentimental continued late today to pour in on the immigration bureau and began to reach the White House. Those addressed to President Wilson were referred to immigration authorities. White House officials pointed out the section of the law which vests the Secretary of Labor with final authority in deportation cases.

Suffragists at headquarters of the National Association of Woman Suffrage, aroused at Mrs. Pankhurst's detention, engaged two attorneys to act with those coming from New York to plead for the British leader.

Commissioner Caminetti, while taking pains to make clear that Mrs. Pankhurst's case was being treated exactly as that of any other immigrant, pointed out that she was in ill health and that considerations due to a woman in such condition would be accorded her.

If the deportation order of the Ellis Island board is sustained, Mrs. Pankhurst may be placed aboard the first ship sailing for France, to the port from which she sailed.

Such an order may be stayed by habeas corpus proceedings in the Federal courts, as was secondly done in the case of Gen. Castro, the Venezuelan exile and which resulted in his liberation.

Today there has been communication between the State Department and the British embassy over the incident. Diplomatists pointed out that the suffrage leader might avail herself of a protest in her capacity as a British subject.

Consternation in London.

London, Oct. 18.—The order for the deportation from the United States of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, coming on top of the publicity announced defection of Mr. and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence from all forms of militancy, has caused consternation among the militant suffragettes here. The headquarters of the Women's Social and Political Union were open tonight, but only members of the rank and file were reported. In the absence of officials few of them cared to talk for publication. They did not attempt to conceal their anxiety, however.

The famous war cabinet of the militant organization has been scattered by illness and prison bars. "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond is seriously ill. Miss Sylvania Pankhurst, Miss Annie Kenney, Miss Kerr and Mrs. Saunders are in jail, while others are absent in the country. Not an official could be found tonight.

Miss Amy Maud Hicks, who has served several jail terms for window breaking and obstruction, said:

"I am greatly surprised that the American immigration authorities should take action which would tend to make the United States equally with England, the laughing stock of the civilized world as regards the treatment of militants."

At a meeting tonight presided over by the Bishop of Kensington and attended by leaders of all shades of opinion except adherents of the Women's Social and Political Union, Mr. and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence spoke, advocating the calling off of old scores in an effort to organize all branches of suffragists. The new campaign will be on entirely new lines without a hint of the violent methods which were formerly favored. The Bishop of Kensington hinted that the church was now ready to become a positive force and would back up the women's movement conducted on the new lines.

Message of Sympathy.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Chicago suffragettes of all factions forgot their differences today and at a hurriedly called mass meeting, united in a protest against denying Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst admission to the United States.

Some of them were in tears as they expressed their disapproval of the action of the immigration authorities and after a number of strong speeches had been made, a resolution of protest was adopted and telegraphed to President Wilson. A message of sympathy was sent to Mrs. Pankhurst at Ellis Island.

"Mrs. Pankhurst should have an adequate and dignified hearing in this country," asserted Miss Jane Addams, chairman of the meeting.

"Good Turn for England."

Boston, Mass., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Armiston Chant, a leader of the peaceful suffragists of England told members of the 20th Century Club today that she heard of the order to deport Mrs. Pankhurst "with an overwhelming sense of gratitude." She called it a "good turn for England."

"We have suffered there acutely," she said, "in fighting for the rights of women. To be right is a thing to be striven for, but we are not to do evil that good may come."

Mrs. Chant, who arrived in this country from England last Thursday, heads a company of British delegates to the W. C. T. U. convention to be held in Brooklyn October 23rd.

Will Go Half.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 18.—George Bemis, former Mayor of Omaha, and a wealthy real estate man, tonight sent a telegram to Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, of New York, offering to join in a bond for $100,000, or any other amount to insure the government against untoward acts of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst.

Mr. Bemis edited a Woman Suffrage paper thirty years.

Resolutions Passed.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 18.—The Woman's Franchise League of Indiana, at a meeting here this afternoon, passed a resolution protesting against the deportation of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst. A copy of the protest was telegraphed to President Wilson.

BIG SHOOT FINISHED.

Peace Again Reigns—Cat Commits Suicide—Other Happenings.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 18.—After smashing half a dozen targets and treating Secretary Daniels and a number of other department officials to a sample of American markmanship, the Atlantic fleet is riding peacefully at anchor tonight, some on the Southern Drill Grounds others in Hampton Roads.

Secretary Daniels and party arrived this morning on the President's yacht Mayflower. They were met by the battleships Arkansas, Utah and Wyoming and escorted to sea where the target practice was held. In the Washington party were Secretary and Mrs. Daniels, Assistant Secretary and Mrs. Roosevelt, Secretary of Commerce Redfield, Secretary of War Garrison and a number of ladies and department employes.

The weather was not altogether favorable for target practice, it being cloudy and hazy at sea, and targets were difficult to distinguish at long distance.

But American gunners can overcome a little thing like cloudy weather and were able to see the target sufficiently to smash several of them to kindling wood. The Washington party witnessed the practice from the deck of the battleship Rhode Island which was not one of the firing ships. On board the Wyoming and Arkansas were a number of newspaper correspondents and photographers.

While the Wyoming was lying in Hampton Roads a few days ago three sailors brought on board a cat for a mascot. This particular cat had never been on a warship while big guns were in action and when the Wyoming battery opened fire on targets today, it actually committed suicide by leaping into the sea. The cat ran up and down the deck of the ship trying to seek some place of safety. Guns were in action at both ends of the vessel and finally when it could endure the noise no longer, the animal leaped into the sea.

Tonight there was torpedo practice by several ships and the searchlight display was both inspiring and wonderful. Secretary Daniels expressed himself as being greatly pleased with the showing made by the gunners on the ships of the first division. He said the shooting was simply wonderful.

BELIEVE TRUST EXISTS.

Price of Cotton Bagging and Ties Controlled.

Washington, Oct. 18.—A "trust" probably is responsible for the great increase in prices of cotton bagging in recent years, according to Secretary Redfield who informed the Senate today that the high price of raw jute and absolute control of cotton bagging in the United States by the American Manufacturing Company and the Ludlow manufacturing associates were the cause.

Secretary Redfield pointed out that the two companies opened the market at about the same time each year at about the same figures. One independent manufacturer gave the department investigator the view that the steel bands with which the cotton is baled—commonly called cotton ties—was affected by the Carnegie Steel Company opening its market late in the season.

AEROPLANE TESTS POSTPONED.

Army Machines Not Quite Ready for Workout.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The tests of the four new army aeroplanes which were to have taken place at Dayton, Ohio, this month, have been indefinitely postponed owing to difficulty of securing the foreign engines required for propulsion.

Meanwhile the signal officers are sending an expert aviator abroad to gather data for the adoption of a uniform system of controlling mechanism to be applied to all the army aeroplanes so that special training will be unnecessary for the handling of the machines.

Houston, Texas, Oct. 18.—Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, of England, defeated Professional W. McGuire and Amateur Bryan Heard of the Houston Country Club today, 7 up and 6 to play, in a 36-hole, four ball match

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 18.—Syracuse proved to be a good defensive eleven against Princeton today, but poor on the aggressive and Princeton won a 13 to 0 victory. The visitors showed a healthy mixture of trick plays. The Princeton attack was based upon Full Back Streit's line plunging.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 18.—Outplaying their rivals in nearly every department, the Michigan Agricultural College football eleven defeated the University of Michigan 12 to 7 here this afternoon. Punting and line plunging had much to do with the victory.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Chicago beat Iowa in their annual game 23 to 6 here this afternoon. Iowa, after the first half, held Chicago on even terms. Chicago relied upon straight football, while Iowa used their entire reserve of tricks.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 18.—For the first time this year a football foe crossed the Harvard goal line today but while the Holy Cross team accomplished this feat through a muffed punt, they were overwhelmed by a score of 47 to 7.

The game was scarcely a minute old when Freedley let a Holy Cross punt go through his fingers. Donovan, the Holy Cross full back, gathered up the ball and dashed across the line. Brawley kicked an easy goal. For the remainder of the game the visiting line was ripped open, circled and overpowered by the Harvard backs.

The first score was made in the first quarter when the Techs marched down the field on straight football, Riddick making a touchdown on a 16-yard run and also kicked the goal. Davidson made their only score on a 55-yard run by Kiesler on an intercepted fumble by the Techs' goal being missed. A. & M. made two in the second quarter on forward passes for 30 and 35 yards, respectively, by Ferdber and Vanbroklin, Riddick kicking one goal and missing the other. In the second half A. & M. sent in a lot of subs, scoring the last touchdown in the third quarter on straight football, Osborne making the touchdown and Riddick missing the goal. The features were the playing of the whole A. & M. team especially Riddick, Sullivan, Osborne and Young, C., and the playing of Kiesler, for Davidson.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 18.—Yale defeated Lehigh here today 37 to 0. Lehigh started strong when Quarterback Chenowith ran back the kick off 25 yards. The Yale line was invincible after that, however, and the blue ends broke up frequently attempted forward passing.

Brann, a new man at end, and Wilson at fullback, played the best game for Yale.

Wake Forest, N. C., Oct. 18.—In an interesting game here today Richmond defeated Wake Forest by the score of 14 to 13. The 'varsity was so badly crippled that Coach Thompson put in the entire scrub team for the first quarter. Robins, King and Anchorrow starred for Richmond; Savage, Trust and Shepherd featured for Wake Forest.

Officials: Fetzer, Davidson; referee, Seifert, A. & M.; New York; head linesman. Time of game, four 15 minute quarters; touchdowns, for Wake Forest, Stringfield and Trust; for Richmond, Robins and Rivet; goals from touchdown, Savage one, and Anchorrow two.

BATTLE PRACTICE OVER.

Secretary Daniels Satisfied With Conduct of Big Boats.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 18.—The first division of the Atlantic fleet consisting of the dreadnought Arkansas, Delaware, Utah and Wyoming, today participated in the opening battle practice of the annual drills off the Virginia Capes. The maneuvers were witnessed by a distinguished party, headed by Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels.

Early today the four battleships, accompanied by the Rhode Island, left Hampton Roads for the drill grounds. The entire day was spent in deep sea practice, all guns of the Arkansas, the Delaware, the Utah and the Wyoming being brought into play. Torpedo practice was also indulged in by the Wyoming this afternoon.

Aboard the Wyoming were Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Secretary of War Garrison and Secretary of Commerce Redfield. The Rhode Island carried a party of Washington ladies, among whom were the wives of several cabinet members.

Secretary Daniels and the other members of the Washington party, expected to leave for Washington late tonight aboard the President's yacht Mayflower, on which they came to Hampton Roads last night.

FOUR KILLED; ONE HURT.

When Auto Collides With Fast Freight Train.

LaPorte, Ind., Oct. 18.—Four persons were killed and one probably fatally hurt near here late today when an automobile driven by Edwin W. Schurz, treasurer of a piano company, was struck by a Pere Marquette train.

The dead are Mrs. Edwin W. Schurz, Mrs. Fannie P. Hainze and Mrs. Carleton Schafer, all of LaPorte, and Mrs. William Brace, of Washington, D. C.; Edwin W. Schurz wos so seriously injured it was believed he cannot survive.

At the place of the accident the highway crosses the railroad tracks through a deep cut. Schurz was driving the machine at a moderate speed, but failed to see a train, the engine of which was pushing a box car ahead. The box car struck the machine squarely. Schurz was thrown clear of the track, but the four women were dashed under the train. Mrs. Brace was the wife of a Washington druggist. All the other victims of the accident were prominent socially in this city.

BRITISH LADY WINS.

National Golf Championship to British Isles.

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 18.—For the third time in five years the Women's National Golf championship has been won by a player from the British Isles.

On the course of the Wilmington Country Club today, Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, of the Bromborough Club, Eigland, former champion of Great Britain, defeated Miss Marion Hollins, Westbrook, L. I., this year's Metropolitan title holder, 2 up, after a sharp contest.

Both players were nervous at different periods, but Miss Ravenscroft was the steadier. Miss Hollins played a plucky game. She got into frequent trouble by making bad drives, but usually came back with brilliant shots.

Notwithstanding Miss Ravenscroft at several periods was off her game, she covered the 18 holes in 86, the best score of the tournament. Miss Hollins' total was 91.

The American player had the first hole practically won, as Miss Ravenscroft got into a bunker and lost a stroke. Miss Hollins, on her third stroke, overshot the cup and had to halve the hole.

Miss Ravenscroft won the second, 3 to 4, and Miss Hollins squared the match on the third, 6 to 8. The next three holes were halved and on the seventh Miss Ravenscroft was one up. The eighth and ninth were halved. Coming in Miss Hollins squared the match on the 10th only to go one down again on the succeeding hole. The 12th and 13th holes were halved and Miss Ravenscroft took the 14th, which made her two up. Miss Hollins took the 15th, 3 to 4, making her one down, and the next two were halved.

With one chance left, Miss Hollins drove into the ditch on her 18th and took two to get out. On her fourth she was on the green and as her case appeared hopeless she did not play out the hole.

The prize, which now goes to England, was held by Miss Margaret Curtis, of Boston, who won the National title in 1911 and 1912. Miss Curtis entered the 1913 championship, but was defeated in the first round Tuesday.

In the first round Daily showed amazing footwork and was quick. He seemed to land at will. The second round was merely a repetition of the first, with Daily then administering a much heavier blow. After a minute of fighting in the second round, Daily dropped Palzer for the count of nine. Palzer arose and clinched. Daily then drove left and right to the jaw and the fight was over.

WEIGH YOURSELF BEFORE USING

Weigh yourself before commencing to use Samose, the great flesh-forming food. The wonderful sale on this preparation since first introduced in Wilmington, and the remarkable results following its use have made the J. Hicks Bunting Drug Co., such enthusiastic believers in the great value of Samose that they give their personal guarantee to refund the money if Samose will not make thin people fat and restore strength and health to those who use it.

This is a strong guarantee, but the J. Hicks Bunting Drug Co. has seen so many of their customers who a few weeks ago looked like walking skeletons become plump and well, solely through the use of Samose that they feel they cannot say too much to induce people to try it.

This marvelous flesh-forming food is assimilated as soon as it is taken into the stomach, makes good rich blood, tones up the weakened system, helps to assimilate the food and makes the user plump, well and rosy.

THE WEEK AT LUMBERTON

Weather Conditions Ideal—Mill Pond Leased—An Old Bank Bill—Other News Notes of Interest in Robeson.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Oct. 18.—The weather during the week has been ideal for the farmers and no time has been lost by them in gathering their crops.

We were shown a four dollar bill one day this week which was issued by the Commercial Bank of Wilmington in what looks to be 1813. O. G. Parsley was president and T. S. Wago, cashier. The reverse side is of a salmon color. The bill is remarkably well preserved and belongs to Silas Revels, a Cherokee Indian.

The singing class from Oxford entertained a large crowd here Thursday night. The collection amounted to $268.25. A number of Lumberton gentlemen have leased from the owners the McMillan mill pond a mile west of town for five years. They propose to port it and keep watchmen employed to prevent fishing or hunting in any way. The government will be asked for a supply of fish.

Howes circus gave two performances here Thursday. The oldest inhabitants never saw as few people from the country in town on circus day before. It is the opinion of some that the crowd is waiting for Dawnie and Wheeler which will show here Monday.

Two horses attached to buggies ran away on the streets Thursday afternoon, one taking fright at the other. Seated in one buggy was a gentleman and lady. They escaped injury though the shafts were broken off when the buggy collided with the corner of the Seaboard passenger station. The shafts were also torn from the other buggy.

Mr. H. M. McAllister, cashier of the First National Bank and stockholder in the opera house, has purchased all other interests in the opera house becoming sole owner. There will be no change in the management.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. McLeod and daughter, Miss Irene, will leave for Baltimore tomorrow evening. They go to that city that Miss McLeod may have treatment from a specialist.

John White, colored, entered a tent a few nights ago and when he had secured one can of sardines was discovered and arrested. In the Recorder's court next day, he was required to give a year of his time to the road force.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf H. McLeod expect to leave Monday evening for a tour of the Northern cities.

Services will be held at the Baptist and Presbyterian churches and the tent tomorrow morning, but the Baptist and Presbyterians will give way in the evening to the tent meeting.

Mr. G. M. Whitfield will go to Wilmington tomorrow morning to attend the funeral of Mr. A. H. Morris, who died last night.

Your correspondent was relably informed tonight that the directors of the Bank of Lumberton had decided to erect a new bank building on their lot, corner Third and Elm streets, at present occupied by the McDonald Drug Company and the Waverly Hotel. Manager McDonald stated that he and the hotel people had been notified to vacate by November 15th. It is understood that the bank people will begin work as soon as the building is vacated and within six months have a handsome new building completed which will be the bank's home permanently.

Mr. McDonald stated that he has options on two buildings, but was undecided as yet just where the drug store would be located.

"Intensely appreciative of your excellency's congratulation and compliment extended to me on the occasion of my inauguration as President of the Chinese Republic, I offer to Your excellency my most sincere thanks for them. The high trust and confidence of the people of China through the National Assembly have seen fit to place in me, make me fully conscious of the great responsibilities that go with them. Happy in the performance of my duties, I always have the luminous example of the United States to guide and help me. It also affords me much delight to observe that your excellency's hope and expectation for the advancement of China and the promotion of the peace and happiness and prosperity of her people under the Republican system of government coincides precisely with my resolute aim and firm object in carrying on the new administration. With this renewed indication of sympathy and interest from your excellency, my hope to draw the bonds of friendship and good understanding that unite the two sister republics has grown stronger than ever and it will be an unfailing pleasure to me to cooperate with your excellency to attain this end. "YUAN SHI KAI."

SUSPECTS FERTILIZER TRUST.

Congressman Faison Wants Investigation by House.

(Special to Journal of Commerce.)

Washington, Oct. 16.—Representative Fason wants an investigation of the manufacture of fertilizers. He introduced the following resolution, which was referred to the committee on rules:

"Resolved, That the Agricultural Committee of the House of Representatives be, and is hereby, empowered and directed to make immediate and full investigation of the manufacturers, person or persons, or corporation engaged in selling or manufacturing and dealers in commercial fertilizers and guano, and the chemical, vegetable and animal ingredients thereof in the United States, and especially in the Southern States, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the said chemicals, commercial fertilizers, guanos, and ingredients thereof and the sales, both wholesale and retail, are controlled by a trust or monopoly. The said agricultural committee is hereby empowered to summon all such persons or corporations, individuals and companies handling and manufacturing and selling such fertilizers and chemicals, and examine them upon oath, and examine the books and records of said sales and manufacture to ascertain if they are not controlled by an illegal monopoly, trust, or combination which fixes the quantity or quantities manufactured and the prices, both wholesale and retail, thereof."

GOV. LOCKE CRAIG.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 18.—Many inquiries have come to Governor Craig the past few days as to whether or not he will actually go out on the public roads on North Carolina Good Roads Days, November 5th and 6th, and do personal work on the roads. He says it is certainly his intention to do so. Already special overalls and other paraphernalia have been ordered for him to use and it is his purpose to put in two good days work either in the Raleigh or the Asheville sections and he is confidently expecting that the people generally will turn out for road work.

REVIVAL AT CHADBOURN.

Rev. H. A. Humble to Assist—Entertainments at Auditorium.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Chadbourn, N. C., Oct. 18.—A series of evangelistic services is to begin at the Methodist church Sunday night. The pastor, Rev. W. C. Martin, is to be assisted by Rev. H. A. Humble, of Laurinburg, N. C. Rev. Mr. Humble assisted Mr. Martin last year for 20 days in one of the most successful meetings ever held here, and our people are delighted to know he is to return. Mr. Humble is one of the ablest preachers and most successful evangelistic workers in the State.

"Mr. Bob," a play of six characters, in two acts, was given at the school auditorium last night by home talent to a large and appreciative audience.

What promises to be one of the most important attractions of the season is the Potters in song and story at the school auditorium Tuesday evening. The Potters are entertainers of unusual ability. Years of success has placed them high among the leading entertainers in the Lyceum field.

The Teachers' Association of Columbus will meet in the school auditorium here the 31st.

MARRIAGE AT [illegible]LAND.

Miss Kathleen Skipper Bride of Mr. Arthur H. Weatherly.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Leland, N. C., Oct. 17.—A wedding of much interest was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Skipper, near Farmer's Station, Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock when their attractive young daughter, Kathleen, became the bride of Mr. Arthur W. Heatherly, formerly of Canton, N. C., but now of Fort Caswell, N. C. The wedding was a quiet home affair and only relatives and a few intimate friends were present. Miss Susie Tharp was maid of honor, while Mr. Lawson T. Skipper, brother of the bride, was best man. The bride is one of Brunswick county's most admired young ladies and is very popular in a large circle of friends. The groom holds the responsible position of sergeant of the 31st company, Coast Artillery, at Fort Caswell, and is held in the highest esteem by his superior officers and a wide circle of friends in Southport. After the ceremony a reception was held, after which the bride and groom departed on the 11:45 A. C. L. train for Southport where they will make their future home.

To provide cheap electrical energy for its industries, the city of Spooner, Wis., has bought 40 acres of land 9 miles below the city on the Namekagen River. There is one of the best remaining sources of water power that are undeveloped in Winconsin, and the purpose of the city officials is to supply energy at cost from a proposed plant at that point to manufacturers locating in Spooner. The city already owns a municipal electric light plant on the Yellow River

FREIGHT RATE COMMISSION

Governor is Wilsonizing All Applicants—Two Charters Issued—Political Talk in Raleigh. Other News Notes.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 18.—Governor Craig said this morning that he is not receiving any applications directly or indirectly for the appointment on the special freight rate commission that he will have to appoint when the railroad companies present their petition alleging that the rates prescribed in the Justice intra-State act are confiscatory and unreasonable.

The fact is that the Governor received a couple or so applications directly and indirectly and then, seeing that he was likely to be flooded and annoyed by applications, he passed word down the line that the fact that a man applied directly or indirectly for an appointment would not in the least help his chances. Indeed, the Governor has determined to select the fairest and most impartial commission that it is possible to get together in the State. Men wih extreme views either way on these rate questions will stand mighty poor show for appointment on the commission.

The Governor does not believe that the railroad companies will wait anything like the full 60 days from the date of ratification of the act, October 13th, to file whatever exceptions to the act that they contemplate. He is anxious for the issues to be raised and the commission appointed and gotten to work just as speedily as possible in order that the application of rates finally agreed upon may be made with the least possible delay for the benefit of the shippers.

Two charters were issued today: The Price Real Estate & Insurance Co., Gastonia, capital $50,000 authorized and $10,000 subscribed by J. L. Price and others, for real estate and insurance business.

The Bunn Banking Co., of Bunn, N. C., capital $50,000 authorized and $10,000 subscribed by J. H. Weathers, D. T. Hollingsworth and others, for general and savings banking business.

The members of the North Carolina Corporation Commission will go to Washington October 28th, 29th and 30th to attend the annual convention of the National Association of Railroad Commissioners. Chief Clerk A. J. Maxwell, of the Commission, will also attend.

Political talk hereabouts is swinging all sorts of angles, one of the latest phases being expression of the view that Hon. R. B. Glenn will really be in the race for the United States Senatorship against Senator Overman instead of going on the Inter-State Commerce Commission through appointment by President Wilson, and that President Wilson will finally select Chief Justice Walter Clark, of the Supreme Court of this State, for chairman of the Inter-State Commission, this appointment to be to the end that there may be a really vigorous movemen for reforming the railroad business in this country.

The remains of W. A. Johnson will arrive here Sunday from Washington, D. C., where he died last night. He was for many years a resident of Raleigh as private secretary to Col. W. A. Turk, general passenger agent of the Southern. Later he was associated with the Jamison Coal & Coke Co., of Pittsburg. He leaves a widow and four children. Mrs. Johnson was Miss Elizabeth Hicks, daughter of the late Col. W. J. Hicks.

Logan Meadows, white, and James Fillmore, trusty, long-tern convicts at the State farm, made their escape last evening. Meadows is from Person county, serving two years for second degree murder. Fillmore is a Wayne county negro serving ten years for burglary.

In the presence of King George, Queen Mary, and a brilliant gathering of royal and distinguished personages, the young Duchess of Fife, daughter of the Princess Royal, was united in marriage Wednesday in the Chapel Royal of St. James' Palace, London., to Prince Arthur, of Connaught, son of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. Both bride and bridegroom are direct decendants of the late Queen Victoria, the bride being a great-granddaughter and the bridegroom a grandson of her late Majesty.

IS IT YOUR KIDNEYS?

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles—A Wilmington Citizen Gives Valuable Hint.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is where danger often lies. You should realize that these troubles often lead to dropsy or Bright's disease. An effective remedy for weak or disabled kidneys is Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the experience of a resident of Wilmington, who has tested Doan's.

Miss Mattie Hodges, 609 E. Fifth St., Wilmington, N. C., says: "I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills just as strongly today as I did some years ago when I publicly told of my experience with them. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured from Bellamy's drug store and they gave me more relief from kidney trouble than any other medicine I had ever taken. I have since been well and my kidneys and back have not troubled me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The dictator is now regarded as an international outlaw. Thanks to President Wilson.

Those who are anxious to go up in the Zeppelin class of airship can have our seat in it.

Banks in metropolitan centers in the South are classed as "country banks" in New York banking circles.

A man in Ohio says he never told a lie. Probably he meant to say that he never told a lie but several.

One of the things not to worry about is whether Wilmington is going to keep getting there with all four feet.

No American man would ever proclaim himself a dictator because it would make his wife laugh at the idea.

Huerta should know that the only dictator who can hope to be recognized is the one who has her own way at home.

That man Peck who figured in the Sulzer trial need not be disappointed in himself because he could not hold a quart without getting full.

What has become of the old-time citizen who used to worry over the frightful casualties that he was sure bicycles were going to cause?

The Rocky Mount Telegram says Rocky Mount wants to adopt the name of "The Bell City." That would be no infringement on Wilmington's reputation as the belle city.

There is talk about pensioning North Carolina teachers. How about remunerating them first so they can keep themselves from getting on the pension list?

Governor Sulzer says he hands his commission back to the people "untarnished and unsullied." He thus indicates that he agrees with the minority report.

According to Governor Sulzer's idea of what Boss Murphy of Tammany, has done to him, Dictator Huerta of Mexico, must recognize the fact that he is in the piker class.

A great many people now know how little they once knew when they believed that the election of a Democratic President would cause cotton to go down to five cents a pound.

Children have reason to recognize their potentiality in an academic way when it is stated that the school gardens cared for by the children of Worcester, Mass., netted $3,400 this year, an increase of $900 over last year.

Tell us who is going to import beef and we will tell you what the price is going to be. Those who import it from Argentina or Australia will hardly do so in order to reduce the price. They will do so to get the benefit of the high price in this country.

Says the Nashville Banner: "A workman on the Panama canal won $15,000 in a lottery, went to New York and lost it in sixty days." He must have kept himself hid for 59 days, for it takes New York only one day to sell a gold brick for $15,000.

Says the New Orleans States: "A man never has so much confidence in the intelligence of the people as when he is a candidate for an elective office." Evidently some run, however, because they think the people are not very particular about whom they elect to office.

The Jacksonville Times-Union notes that "irate suffragettes hurled vegetables and apples at a Scotch judge who had sentenced two of their number to prison." If the judge was really Scotch, the suffragettes might have known that vegetables and apples would only make him re-affirm his own decision.

Public opinion now forms immediately after the telegraph tells the tale. It was so in the matter of Hobson's attack on Underwood and it is so in the case of the unfortunate Governor Sulzer. Since public opinion seems to chrystalize with the swiftness that words are carried by the electric current, a man may be way up in "G" today and B flat tomorrow.

IRON EXPORTS THROUGH SOUTHERN PORTS.

Wilmington, Savannah, Mobile and probably other Southern ports have chronicled the exportation of iron and steel products within the past few years. These ports are close to the Birmingham group of iron and steel mills of the United States Steel Corporation, and that mammoth concern is finding markets all over the world for its products. Naturally the Corporation's export business is greatly increasing, and as the ocean gateways have to be utilized by it to reach the world's trade, it is accentuating the utility of our South Atlantic and Gulf ports. When the Panama Canal is open for traffic it will mean an increase of the opportunities of our ports to handle the materials of the iron and coal production of the South.

The exportation of steel rails, steel billets, pig iron and other metal products is comparatively a new thing for the South Atlantic ports, but the actual fact that iron can be added to the commodities for export from these ports seemingly creates only a ripple of interest. Our people at the ports and throughout the States view too passively the purport of this new line of exports, or of any line of exports, for that matter, but the general use to which an ocean gateway can be put ought to open the eyes of our people to the possibilities of their ports. Shipping iron through our ports means that a new article of commerce is within their grasp, and it should not be taken as a matter of course or a mere item of interest, but should be seized upon as an incentive at the ports for taking steps to increase that branch of trade, if possible.

The Savannah Morning News of Thursday, states that since January 1st, more than 1,100 carloads of iron and steel products have been shipped through the port of Savannah from the Birmingham mills of the United States Steel Corporation. Mr. Geo. F. Armstrong, of Strachan & Co., informed the News in this connection that the people of Savannah do not realize the vast amount of business the Steel Corporation is shipping through that port. He states that "the volume of that company's business at their Southern mills is increasing rapidly, and this increase is being reflected in the shipments through Savannah." Figures furnished by Strachan & Co., show that since January the Steel Corporation has routed through Savannah 32,716 tons of steel rails, 10,458 tons of pig iron and 354 tons of splices—43,528 tons in all. However, let us reproduce this item from The News:

"The steamer Kentra is now in port receiving a cargo of 3,061 tons of steel rails, to be taken to Newport, B. C., for delivery. The Kentra is the flagship of the United States Steel fleet, with Commodore W. G. Turner in command. Following are the cargoes taken out of Savannah for the Steel Corporation since January: Steamer Waresung, 147 carloads of steel rails, for Port Augusta, Australia; steamer Mascara, 180 cars of steel rails, for Port Augusta; steamer Strathord, 164 cars of steel rails, for Port Augusta; steamer Suerre, 70 cars of steel rails, for Port Augusta; steamer Kioto, 122 cars of pig iron, steel rails and cotton for Manila, Shanghai, Kobe and Yokohama; steamer Waltrante, 147 cars of steel rails and splice bars, for Port Augusta; steamer Santa Rosalia, 26 cars of steel rails, for Prince Rupert, B. C.; steamer Walthefles, 78 cars of pig iron and rosin, for Melbourne, Adelaide, Sydney and Brisbane; steamer Southern, 66 cars of steel rails and pig iron, for Melbourne and Sydney; steamer Niwarn, 68 cars of pig iron and rosin for Sidney, Melbourne and and Brisbane; steamer Waglinde, 65 cars of pig iron and rosin, for Sidney, Wellington and Melbourne. According to Mr. Armstrong, the Steel Corporation is now shipping a large portion of the output of its Southern mills through Savannah, because of the transportation advantages of this port."

The above ought to contain an immense amount of interest for Wilmington and Southport, for it again emphasizes the point often made by The Star that we should not only have an organization to make a study of the possibilities and opportunities of the Cape Fear ocean gateway, but that we should have an exporters and importers' association to seize the numerous opportunities for increasing Wilmington's commerce, both by engaging in business or promoting the export and import business of the port.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP PROFITS

Municipal ownership does not seem to be an unmixed blessing everywhere, since public officials do not seem to know anything better than to make it a burden instead of a relief to the people. Jacksonville owns its own lighting plant and it seems to be so well managed, especially as to receipts that a dinner was recently given in honor of the manager at the new electric light station. It seems that during the hour of congratulations it cropped out as a matter of pride that the new electric light station is manufacturing electricity for light and power at 1.05 a kilowat hour.

That revelation opened the eyes of a Jacksonville consumer and he at once wrote a card to the Jacksonville metropolis complaining that he pays seven cents and often more per kilowat hour for the electricity he consumes in his home. That shows, he says, that the city is making nearly 600 per cent profit on the electricity it furnishes to light the homes of the people. He asserts that "if any public utility concern made a profit of 600 per cent there would be the greatest howl ever heard and a demand for lower rates." Quite reasonably, he wants to know "Why should this 600 per cent profit be made off the people, by the people, for the people?"

If the Jacksonville gentleman is correct about the city's exacting such profits for a municipal plant, it shows that the authorities are raising revenue from a source that should bear only a tax for cost of manufacture and maintenance. It is done, of course, by those who do not understand the principle of taxation. They are placing too high a tax on a consumer's light instead upon real property that should bear the tax. The higher the tax on the light, the less will be the tax on real property that should bear the burden of public expense.

A consumer uses up his light and there is no increment from it. He gains nothing from his investment in light and hence he is paying a high tax on something that he hasn't got after he burns his light. Taxes ought to be levied on something a man has accumulated and not on what he has to consume as a necessity.

We understand that Jacksonville also makes a profit from its water, another necessity from which there is no increment. It is not scientific taxation. Light and water consumers are paying a tax on consumption whereas the tax ought to be on increment.

IN PRESIDENT WILSON'S STATE.

The campaign in New Jersey is a three-cornered affair, as the Democrats, Republicans and Bull Moosers have candidates for Governor and State officers. The Democratic nominee has the endorsement of President Wilson, who never fails to go home and do his duty as a citizen—vote for the best man. The New York Tribune says the Jersey campaign "is of peculiar interest because of the relation of the Federal administration to the Democratic side of it and the expected participation of prominent statesmen from Washington," but the Tribune laments that the campaign "is not in all respects bearing out the promise of the preliminary contest before the primaries." The Tribune then explains:

"That earlier campaign was waged all around on principles rather than personalities. But now there seems to be on the part of two of the three candidates and their aids a relapse into personal criticism. The Democratic and Progressive candidates are devoting their attention largely to attacks upon the political record of the Republican candidate. They have comparatively little to say about each other or each other's principles. They seem to regard the Republican candidate as the formidable enemy, against whom, if he is to be beaten, they must co-operate."

Well, it seems that the Democrats and Bull Moosers both have it in for Mr. Stokes, the Republican nominee for Governor, and with the Bull Moosers staying in the fight it is pretty safe to say that New Jersey will have another Democratic Governor. Probably the opposition has Mr. Stokes where the wool is short, for he is not replying to the onslaught of his antagonists. Perhaps he can't, and probably it is for that reason that The Tribune says "Mr. Stokes does not seem to be worrying over their attentions and does not reply in kind, but contesnts himself with conducting his campaign on the high ground of discussion and principles."

If a candidate is not vulnerable he can afford to do that, but if it is getting so that the parties are nominating men who are above reproach, it shows what a great reform Mr. Wilson has brought about in Jersey. It ought to go Democratic as a mark of gratitude to him.

HOW TAXES PREVENT DEVELOPMENT.

Elsewhere we copy from the Blue Grass Clipper, of Midway, Ky., a clever article which pointedly shows why it is that some communities do not develop and why the people leave dead communities and go to others. The Kentucky paper was handed to us by a friend who suggests that it may be "the same in North Carolina, to perhaps a less extent." The article which we reprint is worth reading, and it will bring some new thoughts to communities that are inviting promoters to come and establish industries for them instead of doing it for themselves. It would be the same, however, whether outside or home capital be invested, as the chance for either or both would be affected by the conditions described.

The Kentucky town which is given as an example of how a town can be handicapped, seems to be surrounded by splendid resources and has all the facilities for growing into a prosperous community. It has raw materials that should be manufactured at home and shipped away in the finished state, but high taxes prevent industrial development, so that the community is not even able to utilize its own resources.

Low taxes and enterprise would increase the tax values by building up industries, and development would soon provide all the revenue needed without taxing everythinf except the air that people breathe. Many communities which are at a standstill have extravagant administrations, far too extravagant for the means of the community. That is the reason taxes are burdensome and drive or keep away capital. Less ruling, less taxes, fewer high salaried officials, and fewer sapped communities is what this country wants.

Governor Sulzer was recalled by an impeachment court, according to the constitution which guarantees every man his "day in court." The impeached Governor dissents from the court's finding, and the probability is that he would have preferred to take his chances on a recall from the people in the exercise of that procedure at the ballot box. Governor Sulzer charges that the impeachment process and tribunal was controlled by Tammany, and whether that be true or not, it must be admitted that it is easier to pack a court than it is to pull the wool over the eyes of all the people. If the day comes when the courts cannot be depended upon, the people will insist upon having the recall in their own hands. So long as the people are confident that the courts can be depended upon they will manifest little inclination to change the present method of recalling officials by trial according to judicial process.

This reminds us to say that he has not had a week's vacation from his Congressional duties in a long time if ever. He makes it a point to be present when Congress is in session. He has been home only when called by afflictions, which unfortunately have been numerous in the past year. He secured a leave of absence and it has not yet expired, but he will return to Washington if he is badly needed. Most of the absentees are away without leave and seem to be in no hurry to go back. —Greensboro Record.

WHAT AILS OLD KENTUCKY?

Why Communities All Over the Country Lag Behind—Reason That 600,000 Kentuckians Live in Other States.

(Blue-Grass Clipper, Midway, Ky.)

A traveler recently, while waiting to change cars at a little town in Southeastern Kentucky, had a conversation with an intelligent business man of the place and ascertained the following facts:

"What is your population?" he asked.

"About two thousand."

"What is your principal industry?"

"We have none, unless stores count."

"Have you no factories?"

"None except a tombstone maker."

"How is your population employed?"

"Well, we have fifty-two stores, nine hotels and restaurants, two newspapers, one laundry, one photograph gallery and two banks."

"You seem to have good railroad facilities."

"Yes, we have railroads running North, South, East and West; twenty-six passenger trains in and out every day and no end of freight trains."

"What does the surrounding country produce?"

"Coal, timber, clay, stone, corn, wheat, tobacco, fruit and vegetables."

"What becomes of all these?"

"They are shipped to different parts of the country."

"Has your town increased in population?"

"Not much in the past twenty-five years."

"How are your young people employed?"

"They mostly drift away and get work in the cities."

"Has it never occurred to you to start a few factories and keep them at home?"

"Yes, it has been tried, and we at one time had a commercial club, whose aim it was to get some factories here, but they couldn't seem to do anything."

"What were the obstacles?"

"Well, some people were induced to come here and found cheap land, cheap fuel, good shipping facilities, but no labor, and some of the inquisitive ones asked about taxes, etc., and nothing came of it."

"What is the trouble with your taxes?"

"Well, you see, we have the general property tax in Kentucky, and when they are shown the assessors' lists and found they had to pay taxes on about seventy-five different kinds of property, and all at the same rate, they ducked."

"Is this true about the taxes?"

"Well, it is pretty near the facts. The city and county and State and schools all have to be paid, and if a man starts a factory he has to pay on his machinery, his raw material and finished goods; his cash and accounts, and, of course, on his land and buildings, and a good many other things, including his watch and stickpin, and, if he wants to educate his children, he must pay on the books and piano and his horse and buggy and almost everything but his shirt, and the trouble is, he never knows exactly what his taxes will be. If he omits any of the seventy-five things the Legislature think of and the miscellaneous things he must think of himself, there is the revenue agent who gets a commission on anything he can find, and then there is the county equalization board, which scrutinizes his returns and adds what it likes, and then the State board at Frankfort takes a whack at it and generally raises the whole list, and it simply keeps everybody going who has anything to be taxed."

"Why don't you change the tax laws?"

"Well, they put the law relating to revenue and taxation in the State constitution, and it takes about five years to effect a change, and it is hard to get the voters to understand the question. The last Legislature passed an amendment and it will be voted on at the November (1913) election, and if it is ratified the change will be made."

"I live in Pennsylvania, and every town in that State as large as yours has a factory of some kind, and many of them several. They employ the young men and women and keep them and the money they earn at home. But here comes my train, and all I can say is, you people should wake up, and if your tax laws are oppressive, change them, and your State will blossom like the rose."

"Well, good-bye stranger. I intend to vote for the amendment myself, and maybe others will do the same. It can't be any worse than the present system, and I surely would like to see some smokestacks looming up in these parts. Farewell."

At Albany, N. Y., Thursday evening Governor Sulzer was found guilty on three of the four counts upon which he was impeached, on the first that he falsified his campaign statemen by a vote of 39 to 18; on the second, that he committed perjury in swearing to his campaign statement by 39 to 18; on the fourth, that he suppressed evidence against himself by 43 to 14, and not guilty of the third, which was that he bribed witnesses to withhold evidence from the legislative committee by unanimous vote. Adjournment was taken until the following day, when he was removed from office.

SEPTEMBER HEALTH REPORTS

Work of Entire Department Told in Reports and Statistics Issued to Board—Statement of Finances.

Reports and statistics of the health department for the month of September have been submitted to the County Board of Health by the heads of the different departments. They were read at the lengthy meeting of the board Friday night. The monthly financial statement for September was submitted by the clerk of the board, Dr. John Thames.

The financial report of the department for the month is given as follows:

RECEIPTS:

Balance from last report	$ 756.27
County appropriation for September	341.87
City appropriation for September on account	1,200.00
Total	$2,298.14

DISBURSEMENTS:

Health Department.

Officers' salaries	$ 693.34
Sanitary police	400.00
Disinfectants	1.00
Medicine and vaccine	41.14
Printing and postage	36.40
Maintenance of conveyance	29.81
Attendance board of health	108.00
Contingent Fund	166.42
Total	$1,476.11

Scavenging Department.

Laborers	53.65
Garbage and carrion, laborers	15.42
Total	$ 69.07

Supt. and labor	$ 267.00
Supplies	19.65
Total	$ 286.65
Grand Total	$1,831.83
Balance in bank	466.31
October 1st, 1913 in bank	$ 466.31
Due by city of Wilmington	167.48
Total	$ 633.79

The amount paid out under the head "scavenging department" was for labor prior to the time the work was taken over by the city. It will be noted that the Board of Health received the appropriation from the city "on account," as it claims that the city is due on the September appropriation $167.48. This is an amount equal to one-fifth of the monthly appropriation for the health department, the city contending that under the law consolidating the city and county health departments the county will be obliged to pay one-fifth of the cost of the scavenging work in the city. This question will not arise after October 31st, as the amendment to the health bill provides that the city shall bear all the expense of sanitary work in the city.

The report of Dr. John Thames, assistant superintendent of health, for September follows: Visits to indigent sick in city 26; consultations outside of clinic 14; patients treated as indigent, First Ward 6; Second 1; Third 2; Fourth 2; Fifth 13; county 1; total 25. There were remaining in quarantine in the city, October 1st, four cases of diphtheria; 11 cases scarlet fever; one case measles; four cases whooping cough; in county outside the city, five cases of whooping cough. Fumigation, in the city, diphtheria, 20 rooms; scarlet fever 15 rooms; whooping cough six rooms; measles five rooms; other cases four rooms; outside the city, six rooms for scarlet fever.

In concluding his report Dr. Thames has the following paragraph:

"The sanitary conditions at all the county institutions are good as can be under the circumstances, except the can closets have not been installed at the county home and farm. This improvement has been promised from week to week for three months. No diseases have occurred among either the convicts or inmates. Many of the convicts are afflicted with some specific disease when committed."

During the month of September there were 63 births, 29 whites and 35 colored. There were 46 deaths, 14 whites and 32 colored. There were 15 deaths under five years, two whites and 13 colored. There were five non-resident deaths, three white and two colored. Temporary resident death rate per thousand in the city: White 8.4; colored, 25.01; total, 16.4.

Mr. John M. Mathers, plumbing inspector, reported as follows: Permits issued, 55; fixtures, 130; inspections, 126; sewer connections 26.

Chief of Sanitary Police E. Piner reported: Inspections in September 13,067; closets ordered cleaned 3,954; complaints 462. Mr. Piner says in his report that he does not know how many of the closets were cleaned as he had not received any report from the city.

The report of Dr. Thos. B. Carroll, meat and milk inspector, follows: "The following is my report for the month of September, 1913: I made 34 inspections of dairies and dary farms; the sanitary conditions, health of cattle and attendants were good. I made 513 post examinations of fresh slaughtered meats as follows: 270 cattle; 129 sheep, and 114 hogs, with two cattle condemned for food purposes."

DID THE HORSE DIE?

Policeman Hall Says It did but Evidence is to Contrary.

Policeman T. M. Hall, the motorcycle man for the police department, has many things to do—in fact it can be proven that he is the busiest man in the department—and among other multitudinous duties is making the rounds for the purpose of killing any horses that have become old and decrepit. The other day he shot one out on Princess street in the eastern part of the city and thought he killed it. Imagine his surprise yesterday when a horse was placed in the pound that was an exact duplicate of the horse he had killed, even to having the wound on the forehead. He has been wondering since whether or not he killed that horse or was it resurrected. Anyway, the police have a sorry horse that they want to give somebody.

Death of Young Son.

Everland, the four-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Greer, of Bolivia, died Friday afternoon at 7 o'clock. The funeral service and burial will be at Lipton this afternoon at 3 o'clock. They have many friends who will sympathize with them in their sorrow.

REVIVAL AT FIRST BAPTIST

Series of Meetings Will Begin This Morning—Rev. Dr. T. W. O'Kelley, of Raleigh, Will Assist in Meetings.

Beginning this morning and continuing for 10 days or longer, a revival will be held at the First Baptist church. It will be the first revival held at the First church in about two years and the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. H. Foster, is expecting great good to come of the series of meetings, not only in the cause of winning sinners to Christ but in a revival of the members of the church.

Rev. Dr. T. W. O'Kelley, pastor of the First Baptist church, Raleigh, will assist in the meetings. He will arrive Monday and will preach at the service tomorrow night. Dr. O'Kelley is one of the most successful pastor-evangelists in the South. There is no clap-trap about his methods; no sensation except such as results from the earnest, clear presentation of gospel truth. Dr. Foster considers the church exceedingly fortunate in being able to secure him to assist in the meetings.

Dr. Foster will preach this morning and afternoon and the sermons will be preparatory to the services of the week. His subject at the 11 o'clock service will be "Near Nature's Heart." At night, 7:30 o'clock, his text will be "Ye shall receive power when the Holy Ghost is come upon you." He urges every member of the church to be present at both of the services today and as often as possible during the week.

There will be no service tomorrow afternoon, but beginning with Tuesday services will be held in the afternoon as well as at night. The afternoon services, it is expected, will be held at 3:30 and the night services at 8 o'clock. The public is invited to attend all the services.

CITY IMPROVEMENTS.

Improvements Are Marked Just Now in Eastern Section of City.

During the past few months the improvements in and around the eastern section of the city known as Winoca Terrace, has been very noticeable and the cost of this work totals, it is said, approximately $75,000, which is an evidence of the steady and continued growth of the city.

This work consists of building new residences, building steel reinforced concrete culvert, work by various real estate development companies, and the running of gas mains and electric light service. In addition to this the big city contracts for sewerage and water will run the figures well over the $100,000 mark.

The following homes have been completed recently and are some of our most beautiful residences: Mr. Warren S. Johnson and Mr. A. B. Vanburen, at 16th and Chesnut streets; Mr. E. S. Clark, at 15th and Princess; Mr. H. H. Merritt, at 13th and Princess; Capt. W. L. Jones, on Princess between 16th and 17th; Mr. Walter W. Love and Mr. T. H. Wright, on 15th between Chesnut and Grace. The home of Mr. A. M. King, on 16th between Grace and Walnut, is in course of construction and will be finished shortly. In addition to these, there has been built by Mr. W. M. Cumming and Mr. J. J. Loughlin several renting houses, and the completion of the sewerage system within the next month or so will mean the erection of a dozen or more homes.

It is a pleasure to witness the growth of the city and to note the transformation of this eastern part to one of Wilmington's most beautiful residential sections.

DEFINITE ANSWER SOON.

Philadelphia Team to Take Up Question of Training Ground.

Mr. John W. Blomme yesterday received a letter from Mr. Wm. F. Baker, vice president of the Philadelphia Baseball Club, stating that the club will go into the question of Spring training grounds at an early date and will advise him within the next two or three weeks of their decision. A determined effort is being made to get the club to select Wilmington as the training ground. Mr. Baker stated that the reason the question had not been given consideration earlier was because of the press of business in winding up the affairs of the club for the season just closed.

A meeting of those interested in bringing the team to Wilmington, will be held in the Mayor's office at the City Hall Friday night of this week, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. At this meeting plans will be discussed for placing the proposition before the directors of the club in such a way that they will immediately grasp the many advantages this city has to offer. It is not unlikely that a committee of three will be sent to Philadelphia to present the matter in person when the directors hold the meeting to decide the matter.

The meeting Friday night will be attended by President M. J. Corbett, of the Chamber of Commerce; Mr. C. E. Greenamyer, of the Fidelity Loan & Trust Co., which has offered the site for the diamond, etc., at Sunset Park; the entertainment committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Col. John VanB. Metts, chairman; committee from the local lodge of Elks; Mr. Bert Kite, the well-known local professional ball player, and Mr. John W. Blomme, and possibly a few others who are interested in the proposition.

Mr. Blomme announced last night that Brooklyn, N. Y., team would not be secured for a game here this Fall owing to the fact that the only open dates are Wednesday and Thursday of this week. If the team could have been secured on a Saturday Messrs. Blomme and Kite would have arranged for their coming.

HIGH SCHOOL DEFEATS A. C. L.

Opening Game of Football Season at Hilton Park Yesterday Afternoon. Score Was 34 to 9.—Strong Teams.

The Wilmington High School defeated the Wilmington Tigers by a score of 34 to 9 yesterday afternoon at Hilton Park in the opening football game of the season. The weather conditions were ideal and there was a large attendance. Although the Tigers, composed of young men of the Atlantic Coast Line general offices, were slightly heavier than their opponents they were unable to overcome the odds that the High School boys had over them by reason of their strenuous practice of the last few weeks.

The Tigers received the first kick off and the first touchdown was made by Thompson. The next kick-off was also received by the Tigers and the High School made a touchdown on the brilliant forward pass from Jones to Grant. The third score was made by Jones after a 35-yard dash. Wagner made his only failure to kick goal in this play. The fourth touchdown was made by Wagner and the fifth by Thompson.

In the second half the A. C. L. boys took the forward pass from the High School and scored. In the third quarter the Tigers took ball on forward pass for a 30-yard run when the ball went over to the High School. The High School made a 25-yard kick and recovered the ball. In the fourth quarter Hashagen recovered the ball on a fumble and made a 20-yard run The ball was recovered by the Tigers but they failed to forward and were forced to kick when it was recovered by Hicks. Hashagen made a brilliant 50-yard run which was ruled out on a technical error. The A. C. L. made 25 yards for a touchdown on a forward pass to Shannon and scored a goal.

Star ball was played for the High School by Wagner, Thompson, Rhodes and Hicks. The star players for the Tigers were Shore and Cutler. The Tigers made several fine plays and showed that they have the material for making a splendid team. While the High School boys were able to outclass them in yesterday's game because they have had more experience on the field this year, they had opponents worthy of their steel, and it was by no means easy sailing for them to pile up the large score they made.

The High School boys proved themselves last year to be the champion football players of the State so far as High School teams are concerned, and judged from their splendid form yesterday afternoon they stand a most favorable chance this year to repeat the performance.

In the line-ups of the teams several exchanges of players were made at different stages in the game by both teams.

In the line-up of the teams several follows: Wilmington High School: Grant and Corbett, right end; Thames (captain), right tackle; Hanby and Nurnberger, right guard; Rhodes, center; Johnson and Wells, left guard; Hicks, left tackle; I. Silverman and Monroe, left end; Jones, quarterback; Wagner, right halfback; Hall and Hashagen, left halfback; Thomson, fullback. Wilmington Tigers: Shannon, right end; Merrimon, right tackle; Johnson, right guard; B. Lewis, center; Davis, left guard; Wessell and Lewis, left tackle; Shore, left end; Cutler, quarterback; Myers, left halfback; LeGwin (captain), right halfback; Houston and Quinlivan, fullback.

INTEREST IN LECTURE.

Senator LaFollette Will Doubtless Have Large Audience.

That there is great interest in the coming of the eminent lecturer, Senator Robt. M. LaFollette, who will lecture at the Boys' Brigade Monday night, October 27th, is attested by the very general request for tickets which has already been made. These have been requested by letter, verbally and by telephone and the limited number of tickets which will be offered for sale is going very rapidly.

To facilitate this sale and to accommodate those who want tickets it has been decided to place these on sale Monday morning at the store of Munson & Co., where they may be had as long as there are any left. The price is $1 each.

Senator LaFollette will leave Washington, D. C., and will come direct to Wilmington, where he will open his lecture tour. From here he will go to Raleigh where he will probably address an audience of about 2,500. He will visit the home of Representative Godwin and then go to Charlotte where a great mass meeting will be addressed. His lecture, "Representative Government," is one of the most talked about now being delivered as it deals with living issues of the day and it should be heard here by every citizen who has the best interests of his city and country at heart.

Not since the visit of William Jennings Bryan several months ago has the Wilmington public been given an opportunity to hear such an eminent figure in both political and civil life as Mr. LaFollette. Only the visit of a President could eclipse this of this noted Senator.

Adds New Department.

Wilmington's old and reliable clothier, Mr. I. Shrier, northeast corner of Front and Princess streets, as is announcel in another column, has added a department of boys' and young men's suits made to order. Mr. Shrier has connected himself with one of the largest tailoring houses in the world in this line and is prepared to give ready-to-wear suits for boys and young men at prices usually charged for ready made garments.

The Safe Principle.

Yesterday's Raleigh News and Observer: "The Wilmington City Council has turned down a proposal to go back to the flat rate of selling water. We do not know all the circumstances, but the decision on the face of it looks like a wise one. A flat rate for any public utility is subject to abuse. The one safe principle is to collect according to service rendered."

WHERE TO SECURE GOOD CLOTHES.

In order to give the public the very best satisfaction in clothes, both ready-made and made-to-measure, we have employed an expert tailor, Mr. James Rafferty. Our tailoring department is on the second floor, and represents over 1,500 different styles, ranging in price from $13.50 to $15.00. We represent

The Royal Tailors,
Schloss Bros. & Co.,
The Haas Tailoring Co.

We will be pleased to show you the highest grade of workmanship and guarantee every garment to give satisfaction.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE CLASSES

New Course of Study for Girls Added to High School Curriculum—Much Interest is Being Shown.

As announced some time ago, domestic science has been added to the High School course of study in this city, and classes were started the past week. This department is in charge of Miss Grace Logan, an experienced instructor in this art, who received her training at Simmons College, Boston, Mass., and at Mechanics Institute, Rochester, N. Y. This study is intended especially for the girls of the sophomore and junior classes.

A room in the basement of the High School building has been completely equipped with the most modern cooking apparatus. There is sufficient equipment for 16 pupils to take lessons at a time. Each student has a separate desk, and the instruction is largely of an individual nature.

While the work primarily includes practical lessons in cooking, theoretical instruction in food values is also given. Among the many problems taken up will be the important one of making a balanced meal, one that will contain all the essential foods necessary for the nourishment of the body. Later in the year household sanitation, laundry work, housekeeping and other similar subjects will be taken up. The whole course is designed to be of practical service to those taking it.

The greatest interest is being shown by the pupils who have entered into the work with enthusiasm. Not only are the students greatly interested, but many mothers in the city have visited the school for the purpose of finding out something about the instruction given. Miss Logan has been asked to begin an extension class for those who wish to take the course who are not students in the High School and it is likely that such a course will be started within a short time.

Adding this new department is in keeping with the general progressive nature of the work being done in the High School here. It is only within recent years that it has been thought necessary to give instruction in domestic science in the public schools. The most modern schools of the present day, however, aim not only to give their students training in the so-called fine arts, but also in the more practical arts. The fact that Wilmington schools are keeping themselves in the forefront of educational advancement is a source of pride to her citizenship, and they are showing their appreciation by giving the schools their most earnest support.

DEATH OF AGED CITIZEN.

Mr. A. H. Morris Passed Away Yesterday After Long Illness.

Many friends were grieved yesterday to learn of the death of Mr. Augustus Hamilton Morris, one of Wilmington's oldest and most highly respected citizens, which occurred at his home, No. 815 Chesnut street, yesterday morning at 2:45 o'clock. He had been confined to his bed for the last nine months, and had been in failing health for the last five years. Death was due to neuralgia of the heart.

Surviving him besides his wife, Mrs. Sarah F. Morris, are two daughters, Mrs. J. O. Powers and Mrs. J. M. Whitfield, one son, Mr. R. H. Morris; one sister, Mrs. Lucy B. Pearsall and four grandchildren, all of this city. They will have the sincerest sympathy of a host of friends in their sad bereavement.

Mr. Morris was a native of this city and lived here all his life. He was a son of the late William and Margaret Morris. During the Civil War he served in the engineering corps under General Whiting. He saw service in Wilmington and at Fort Fisher. After the war he engaged in the chinaware and tinware business in which he continued until ten months ago, when he retired on account of failing health. He was a great believer in education, and for several years in the late sixties served as chairman of the school board of this city. He was a public spirited citizen, and interested in every movement for the betterment of his fellowman.

The funeral will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock from the residence, and will be conducted by Rev. G. T. Adams, pastor of the Fifth Street Methodist church, assisted by Rev. C. T. Rogers, pastor of Trinity Methodist church. Interment will be in Bellevue cemetery.

ASK HEAVY DAMAGES.

Former Brakeman Brings Suit Against A. C. L. Railroad.

Through his attorney, J. Felton Head, Esq., suit was started in Superior Court yesterday by Clarence Collins Williams, a young white man, against the Atlantic Coast Line. It is a personal damage suit and while the complaint has not yet been filed it is understood that the amount asked will be $25,000. Williams was formerly a brakeman for the Coast Line, running on a freight train between Wilmington and Rocky Mount. It is alleged that while attempting to make a coupling at Goldsboro on April 24th, last, he was caught between the cars and three fingers on his right hand were cut off, besides he received other injuries which has incapacitated him for work. Williams is a native of Orangeburg, S. C., but has lived here for some time.

THE RECORDER'S COURT.

A Half Dozen Charges of Vagrancy Before Court Yesterday.

A round half dozen colored people faced the Recorder yesterday, charged with vagrancy. The case against Annie Askins was continued. Nick Lawson was sent to the roads for 30 days, and Lizzie Cole, Lillian Waddell, Dora Crawford and Emma Hill got 30 days each on the county farm. Judgment was suspended upon payment of the costs in cases against A. MacFarland and J. H. Whitehead, both colored, charged with keeping unsanitary premises. The cases against J. C. McKay and Dave Nichols, both colored, charged with a similar offense were dismissed. Dave Saunders, colored, charged with similar offense, failed to show up, and was ordered fined $5.

Superior Court Tomorrow.

The regular two weeks' term of Superior Court will convene tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock with Judge Geo. Rountree, of this city, presiding. The term is for the trial of civil causes only. Judge Rountree requests that the members of the bar meet in the court room at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning as he desires to revise in some particulars the calendar arranged by the bar some days ago.

She was followed by several other women speakers in the audience, but the people tired of the impromptu votes meeting and rapidly vacated the theatre.

Work of installing the gymnasium apparatus in the new Y. M. C. A. building is nearing completion and it was stated last night that the gymn may be ready for classes by Wednesday of this week. During the past week a large number of people have visited and inspected the new building, all expressing their gratification that Wilmington has a building so well equipped for the work. The officers of the association are pleased to have visitors come and go over the building and as many as care to do so are cordially invited to call this week and inspect the building.

NOBODY WAS KILLED.

Much Excitement on 13th Street Yesterday Caused by Shooting.

Several pistol shots in the home of Willie B. Newkirk, colored, at 13th and Orange streets, yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock created considerable excitement among the people in that vicinity, and started a report that a woman had been killed. Chief Williams and Officers Coleman, Leon George and Hall went up to make an investigation, but did not find anyone who had been hurt. Luther Newkirk, colored, a brother-in-law of the Newkirk woman, was in the house, and both denied any knowledge of the shooting. After making a search of the house the officers found a pistol under the bed and also several cartridges near the back door where the shooting was alleged to have occurred. Newkirk and the woman were arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, and taken to the City Hall. The woman gave bond, while the man was forced to go to prison.

All State taxes on banks and corporations must be paid directly to the State Treasurer, according to a letter which Sheriff Cowan has received from Mr. A. J. Maxwell, clerk of the Corporation Commission. Mr. Maxwell states that instructions were given to the Register of Deeds before the tax books were completed, that all State taxes against corporations assessed by the Corporation Commission would be certified to the State Treasurer for collection, and that no State taxes should be levied on the county books against any property listed by such corporations.

CHARTER FOR CLUB SECURED

First Meeting of Commercial Organization Will be Held Tomorrow Night When Officers Will Be Elected.

A charter for the Wilmington Commercial Club was issued a few days ago by the Secretary of State, and the first meeting will be held tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock in the Elks' Temple when a permanent organization will be effected, a constitution and by-laws adopted, and officers elected for the ensuing year. There are nearly a hundred charter members, and it is expected that many others will join in the near future.

The club is to be organized as a business men's club in the interest of Greater Wilmington. Its purpose is to augment the work of existing organizations, by aiding in the development of the material resources of this city and section. It will seek to secure new industries, enlarge trade, work for better rail and water transportation, and do everything possible to bring Wilmington to the front in a commercial way.

A temporary organization of the club was effected several weeks ago with Mr. C. E. Greenamyer as president, and Mr. Sig Zulowsky as secretary. These gentlemen have had charge of the campaign for securing new members, and have met with most gratifying success.

Every member is urged to be present at the meeting tomorrow night to take part in the organization, and is also asked to bring a new member with him. While it is necessary to have finances to run the organization it is the intention of those behind the club to secure the active co-operation of every member as well as the payment of the annual dues.

It is probable that at the meeting tomorrow night steps will be taken to secure a permanent location for the quarters of the club. A tentative proposition has been made by the Cape Fear Hotel Company to add an extra story to the handsome building which it is now constructing on Front street, and this matter will be taken under consideration just as soon as the organization is perfected.

It is proposed to elect some live man of experience as secretary. He will be expected to direct the activities of the club, and to use his time in building up a better and bigger Wilmington.

"THE LITTLE MILLIONAIRE."

Two Large Audiences Enjoyed Bright Musical Comedy Yesterday.

As good a small musical comedy as Wilmington audiences have the opportunity of seeing in this city was presented at the Academy of Music yesterday, afternoon and night, to large and appreciative audiences. The singing was splendid, especially the International Quartette. The chorus while not large, made up in good looks what it lacked in numbers. Mr. Bert Leigh in the character of Bill Costigan, the wine agent, furnished most of the fun, and kept things lively throughout the performance. He is a first-class actor. His rendition of "Barnum Had the Right Idea" was particularly happy. The other characters were carried out with grace and ease, and the company as a whole is a most capable one.

Boone, William R. Smith and G. T. Keen.

COTTON MARKET NERVOUS

Owing to Conflicting Influence of Unfavorable Weather Reports and Rumors of Large Ginning Returns.

New York, Oct. 18.—The cotton market was nervous and unsettled today owing to the conflicting influence of an unfavorable weather outlook and rumors of large private ginning returns. Closing prices were steady unchanged to three points lower.

Lower Liverpool cables, reports of larger offerings of actual in the English market and the failure of the early weather map to show any sign of predicted frosts in the Southwest, were considered responsible for an opening decline of 8 to 9 points. There were a good many over-night selling orders around the ring but they were executed readily at the initial figures and the market quickly rallied on covering and apprehensions that a high barometer reported in the Pacific Northwest would bring threatening temperatures into the belt by the beginning of next week. Houses with Wall Street connections were active buyers on the advance which carried prices 1 to 4 points higher during the middle of the morning. There was also a considerable demand from trade sources and local bulls, but after the requirements of recent sellers had been supplied the market eased off under realizing, rumors of a bearish National ginners' report and a moderate renewal of local pressure. An easier turn in New Orleans contributed to the reactionary tendency here but after breaking 7 to 8 points the market steadied slightly on continued covering last prices being within 4 to 5 points of the best.

A local spot house estimates the ginning to October 18th at 6,801,699 bales, comparing with its figures of 4,017,597 bales to September 25th. This indicated ginning of 3,784,000 bales for the period added to the last government report would amount to a total ginning of about 7,000,000 bales so far this season.

STOCK MARKET GOES UP

Tone of Market Srtong from First to Last—No Improvement in Sentiment But Some Favorings on Long Side.

New York, Oct. 18.—The turn in the tide on the stock exchange which began in a hesitating way yesterday, came definitely today. Leading stocks were marked up 1 to 2 points.

The tone of the market was strong from first to last. Can common and preferred and American Beet Sugar were the only important exceptions to the general movement. It was generally conceded that the chief impetus for the advance was derived from short covering. There were indications, however, of more vigorous operations for the long account.

There was no marked improvement in sentiment but some considerations other than the technical position of the market favored operations on the long side. The September statement of domestic exports was above expectations, showing a gain of $19,000,000 over the corresponding period of 1912. An increase of $20,000,000 in cotton accounted for the improvement. The weekly reviews of the commercial agencies indicated that general business was more active than a year ago.

The outstanding feature of the bank statement was an actual reduction in loans of $24,580,000 which reflected the freeing of credits as a result of the week's liquidation.

The statement of the actual condition of the clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they held $12,671,350 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $4,714,100 from last week.

Bonds were irregular and derived little benefit from the rise in stocks, total sales, par value $650,000. United States 2s registered advanced 3-4, the 2s coupon 1-2 and the 4s 1-8, Panama 2s 1-4 on call on the week. Total stock sales 178,600 shares including American Tobacco, 400; A. C. WEEKLY FINANCIAL REPORT.

Market Resists the Force of Depression—Liquidation.

New York, Oct. 18.—It was only after a further recession of prices that the stock market this week showed signs of sufficient absorptive power to resist effectively the force of depression.

The contraction of loans shown in the bank statement indicated that a release of credits had accompanied the stock market liquidation. This was in spite of the fact that a considerable portion of the liquidation was from foreign sources.

The necessity of securing resources to meet new commitments in foreign markets apparently was the cause of this liquidation. The field of these new commitments abroad was indicated by the news of the practical failure of a number of colonial loans in London, the violent slump in the new Brazilian issue and, by the preparations for a coming government loan in Paris. The troubles in Mexico increased foreign depression.

That new financing in the New York market must also some time be provided for was intimated by one or two actual new bond issues and by reports of comprehensive plans for several railroad systems.

The discouraging views of the outlook usual in a period of declining prices were prevalent. Rumor based on no tangible developments had it that the administration at Washington was planning extensive legislation on anti-trust lines.

Assertions made in some of the public criticisms of the Glass-Owen currency bill had an unsettling influence on the sentiments of operators in securities.

Industrials were hurt by reports of falling off in demand for steel products, concessions in prices and some reduction of working forces. Diminishing prospects for the cotton crop were a factor in shaping opinions over the business prospect.

WEEKLY COTTON REPORT.

Marked Finish of Wide Reaction—New Movement.

New Orleans, Oct. 18.—This week the cotton market saw what appeared to be the finish of the wide reaction after the long continued advance of the early Fall, and the beginning of a new bull movement.

At the end of the week it was rumored that prominent local traders had left for New York and this was taken to be significant in connection with developments concerning the spot position in the future market.

The net results of the week were an advance of 21 to 25 points. The high prices were made on Friday and the low prices on Wednesday. At the highest the trading months were 33 to 37 points over last week's close; at the lowest they were 26 to 27 points under. The range was 58 to 63 points.

Up to the middle of the week the reaction downward was still on, but a change for the worse in weather conditions gave the bulls the upper hand.

At the close of the week there was a very good tone in spite of the unfavorable attitude of the English market.

After the middle of the week considerable rain was reported over the belt and the precipitation was considered to have done much damage. Spot men claimed further damage to grade and reports to spot people made it evident that grade damage has been so great this Fall as to become a serious feature of the situation.

In the spot department prices made no net change, middling closing at 13 9-16, against 13 9-16 last week and 10 3-4 this week last year. Sales on the spot amounted to 5,352 bales, against 1,799 last week, and 4,015 this week last year. Sales to arrive amounted to 8,430 bales, against 7,645 and 10,240.

NEW YORK PRODUCE MARKET.

New York, Oct. 18.—Wheat irregular; No. 2 red 94 to 95 1-2;, No. 1 Northern Duluth 93 3-4.

Corn—Steady; 76.

Flour—Barely steady.

Hides, Petroleum and Wool—Steady.

Leather and Rice—Firm.

Molasses—Steady.

Butter—Firmer.

Cheese—Easy.

Sugar—Raw steady; refined, steady.

Coffee—Spot unsettled; No. 7 Rio 10 7-8; No. 4 Santos 13 1-2. Mild—Quiet; Cordova 13 1-2 to 16 1-2.

Potatoes, Peanuts, Freights and Cabbages—Steady, unchanged.

Cotton Seed Oil—Easier at the start under moderate selling in November under crude offering, but the steadiness of cotton caused more confidence on the buying side and prices rallied, closing five points net lower to one point higher. Prime crude 5.60 to 5.66; prime Summer yellow 6.85 to 6.97; prime Winter yellow and Summer white 7.00; October 6.83; November 6.74; December 6.81; January 6.91; February 6.98; March 7.07; April 7.16; May 7.23.

WEEKLY DRY GOODS REPORT.

More Confidence Shown in Market. Prices Better.

New York, Oct. 18.—More confidence in the higher values of cotton goods was shown at the end of the week following the recovery of cotton prices on the exchanges.

Buyers who were hesitating are resuming their inquiries and purchases. The fundamental influence in the market for the time being is the scant suply of goods for quick distribution, in mill houses and in jobbers' hands. Some of the largest producing concerns are carrying the lightest stocks in years at this period of the Fall, and production is greatly hampered by labor conditions and shorter hours.

Napped cottons which were opened a short time ago for the manufacturing trades at prices ranging from one cent to two cents a yard higher than last year are selling steadily and some of the best known Southern lines of 36-inch goods have been sold up and withdrawn. Bleached cottons continue very fine. Brown cottons and gray goods had eased somewhat when cotton declined, but recovery has nearly been complete.

Staple dock is quoted at 25 1-2 cents per pound, an advance having been made during the week. Fancy cottons are in steady request on duplicate small orders for Spring. Jobbers are still finding it difficult to secure satisfactory deliveries of sheets and pillow cases, towelings, and other staples. Underwear and hosiery are firm. Yarns were quiet a week ago, but the inquiry at the end of the week was more general.

Prices on cotton goods range as follows: Print cloths 28-inch 64x64s 4c; 64x60s, 3 7-8; 38 1-2-inch 64x64s, 5 5-8; and 6 3-4; standard Southern sheetings 8 1-4; denims, 9 ounce 14 1-2; tickings 8 ounce 14; staple standard prints 5 1-4; staple ginghams 6 1-2; dress ginghams 9 3-4.

Railroad embankments in China are protected from floods by planting them with a peculiar native grass with tenacious roots to resist erosion.

Working on the principle of the hand screw a new nut cracker that may be fastened to a table, cracks the shells without injuring their contents.

adopts various ruses to escape the scores striving to reach him with personal affairs. He slips out of unused entrances and takes round about routes to hide his whereabouts.

The rumors of President Huerta's resignation and flight caused a sensation in the capital. Many believed them, finding circumstances to bolster up the story such as the departure of Colonel Vidaurrazaga, who was Minister Blanquet's private secretary for Vera Cruz and difficulty in finding any cabinet ministers. Few remembered having seen General Huerta for a day or two.

Diaz Back Home.

Havana, Oct. 18.—General Felix Diaz arrived here today from Europe. He told the Associated Press that he would proceed immediately to Mexico and had no intention of abandoning his Presidential aspirations.

He declined to express any opinion on other aspects of Mexican affairs.

Deputies Arraigned.

Mexico City, Oct. 18.—Seventy-four of the 110 members of the Mexican Chamber of Deputies arrested October 10th were today formally arraigned. The charges entered against them were all for political offenses designated by the law as rebellion, sedition and "insults" to important public functionaries.

Ten of the deputies against whom there was said to be insufficient evidence were released.

No Immediate Danger.

Mexico City, Oct. 18.—There is no truth in the report that the Americans have been ordered out of Mexico. A number of American residents here have received in the last few days cablegrams from relatives in the United States importuning them to leave. One business man has been asked by his firm in the United States to close out his business and quit the country. This has given rise to various disquieting rumors.

Circulars Sent Out.

Vera Cruz, Oct. 18.—Circulars urging the people to vote for Gen. Huerta for President have been received by John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative from various parts of the republic. Some came from as far south as Campeche, while others were sent from the west coast. The wording of the circulars is identical and they are signed "Committee."

GUILTY OF THEFT.

Post Office Clerk Admits Guilt—In Jail.

Roanoke, Va., Oct. 18.—After pleading guilty to the theft of $11,000 from the Pocahontas post office, former Assistant Post Master Edward Silberger was remanded to the Roanoke city jail this afternoon by United States Commissioner Goodloe.

Mrs. Silberger, wife of the prisoner, held as an accessory, waived hearing. She has a six months old baby, and for that reason was not sent to jail, but she will remain at the headquarters of the local Salvation Army, the wife of the captain in charge having fixed a bond to insure Mrs. Silberger's appearance before the United States Court at Danville, Va., in November, when her husband's case will go to a Federal grand jury.

An effort will be amde to secure bail for both of them.

The prisoners were arrested in Cleveland several days ago, to which place they had fled from Pocahontas. They were brought here this afternoon.

BAD AUTO SMASH-UP.

Four Persons Killed and One Dying as Result.

New Orleans, Oct. 18.—Four persons were killed and one is dying at Charity Hospital tonight as the result of an accident when a switch engine crashed into an automobile at City Park avenue and terminal crossing.

The dead are: Mrs. Samuel Jerolleman, wife of a prominent flour canufacturer; Samuel Jerolleman, Jr., aged sixteen.

Mrs. Mary Guiterrez, mother of Mrs. Jerolleman.

Samuel Close, chauffeur.

Mr. Jorelleman is not expected to recover.

The car had just been purchased and Close was demonstrating its merits. The locomative struck the automobile squarely, dragging it and its human freight three hundred feet before it could be stoped.

BRIEF IN THAW CASE.

Defense Files Papers With New Hampshire Governor.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 18.—In a supplementary brief on behalf of Harry K. Thaw, filed today by his counsel with Governor Felker, it is declared that Thaw had been detained under arrest on a defective requisition petition supported by the allegation of an indictment which never existed.

The brief questions whether the requisition for Thaw's extradition is made in good faith and whether the State of New York demands Thaw's return for the purpose of trying him for conspiracy or for the purpose of re-incarcerating him in Matteawan Hospital for the insane.

"If it is the latter purpose which actuates New York," the brief says, "it is illegitimate and for the Governor of New Hampshire to honor the requisition would be illegal."

WILSON PLAYING GOLF.

Amid Wind and Rain, President Drives Ball Over Course.

Washington, Oct. 18.—President Wilson climbed the hills of the golf links in wind and rain today and came back to the White House aglow with color.

He smiled at stories that he had been in ill heatlh.

Representative Murray, of Massachusetts, who dropped in on the President, greeted him with the remark: "I am sorry to hear that you are sick, Mr. President."

"Well, juts tackle me, and see," laughed the President, as he assumed a pugilistic pose.

The President had a slight attack of indigestion last week, but entirely recovered from it.

AGED MAN DEAD.

Knew Webster and John C. Calhoun—Organized Bank.

Washington, Oct. 18.—George T. May, 81 years old, of this city, who knew Daniel Webster and John C. Calhoun, and was for many years chief clerk in the office of the comptroller of the currency, died here today. He organized the National Bank of Virginia at Richmond, and had been in the government service since 1875.

Baltimore, Oct. 18.—All the buildings at the Havre de Grace race track were destroyed by fire of unknown origin tonight. The burned buildings included the grand stand, club house and stables. It is understood there were no horses at the track.

SON KILLS MOTHER.

Aged Lady Victim of Accidental Discharge of Pistol.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Jenning Williams, 66 years old, was accidentally shot and killed at her home, 814 Southampton avenue tonight, by Walter H. Williams, her 18-year-old son.

Walter was cleaning a revolver and had taken four of the five cartridges from the weapon and placed them in his mother's lap. The fifth cartridge was difficult to extract and the boy was trying to pry it out with a pair of scissors when it exploded. The bullet entered Mrs. Williams' left temple. She died almost instantly.

SENATOR DEFENDS NEWSBOYS.

Arrested for Jumping on Street Cars in Washington.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Two grimy youngsters who sell papers at the Senate office building will have a Senator for their attorney when they appear in juvenile court next Tuesday charged with jumping on street cars.

Senator Clapp, of Minnesota, learned today that the two boys had been arrested and he hastened to appear for them.

"I used to do a lot worse thing than that when I was a boy," he said, "but no one arrested me."

TOPICS TALKED IN LONDON

Prince Henry Student at Eton—America's Cup Defender—Golf in United Kingdom—Plays Worth Fortunes to Producer.

(By Associated Press.)

London, Oct. 18.—Prince Henry, King George's third son, is now a student at Eton, and it is said that he will be treated like any other boy, except for "fagging." Prince Arthur of Connaught,, it will be remembered, was "fag" to one of the Astors and from this it is assumed by some that Prince Henry will have to adhere to custom and run messages and do other menial tasks for some lucky boy who has served his term at the same thing. Eton, of course, is democratic and a nick-name will certainly be found for Prince Henry, as there was for Prince Albert when he entered the naval academy at Osborne. The latter was known as "the lobster," although not with the same meaning as that term is used in America.

The style of clothing that Eton demands for her scholars has already been adopted by the Prince. His first day was occupied in buying his first silk hat, or "topper" as the Etonians term it, and he duly appeared in the tailless Eton jacket, broad collar and trousers turned up at the bottom. The last button of his waistcoat was of course unbuttoned, as no Etonian, much less a new boy, would dare appear with the lower button buttoned.

There are many other things besides his lessons that Prince Henry will have to learn before he becomes an accomplished boy of Eton. On no account must he, until he has served his apprenticeship, indulge in the frivolity of a fancy waistcoat or rolled up umbrella, wear brown shoes or walk arm-in-arm with a fellow voyager along the "High."

Almost indefinite are the rules of Eton etiquette—where or when a fellow may smoke or drink "swipes" (ale), under what circumstances he may call a spade an agricultural implement, on which side of the pavement he may walk going to Windsor (it is always the right hand side), and the exact set of his "topper" on holidays and high days.

When he is homesick he will learn that there is but one place where tears may be shed, "The Waters of Babylon," and as to slang, he has a dictionary full of it to pick up. Prince Henry is to be a "dry-bob," that is, he will play cricket, and not be a "wet-bob," or rower. Generally the rower is considered to be more of a "blood."

American Cup Defender.

There has been considerable discussion in yachting circles here over the report cabled from America that the boat which is to defend the America cup is to be built of bronze and to have silk sails. One of the Shamrocks was built partly of bronze, and its advantage over steel in securing a fine polished surface below the waterline is well known. Some English naval architects, however, favor a patent alloy of aluminium as material for the hull of a fast-racing yacht. A small boat built in England of this material was raced in Belgium last season and found to be equal to any steel boat in point of stability at about half the weight.

Charles E. Nicholson, who is to build the new Shamrock, however, does not favor it, so it is not likely to be used in Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger.

As to silk sails, English yachtsmen believe they sag too much and that what the American defender will be supplied with is really "union silk," which is largely cotton. The sails of the Shamrock IV will be made by the firm that makes the sails for all the best English yachts. The cloth used by this firm is specially woven for them and is not supplied to anybody else.

The Sympathetic Strike.

Syndicalism, which plays such a large part in the trade unionism of Continental Europe, has made little or no progress in Great Britain. In fact, some of the strongest trade union organizations in this country have declared against it.

First, there was the railwaymen's union, the executive of which decided against a sympathetic strike, another phrase for syndicalism, in connection with the Dublin strike. Some of the members of the union went out on strike in England sooner than handle "tainted goods" from Dublin, but they found no support from the officers of the organization and were therefore compelled to return to work. The bus drivers and conductors of London in their newly signed agreement with the owners have taken a similar attitude toward the sympathetic strike, and one of the clauses of the agreement expressly states that the companies are not to be affected by disputes with companies with which they have no direct concern. This is considered as big a victory for the companies as is the recognition of the unions for the men.

These decisions are a setback to those who advocate general strikes to secure redress of the workmen's grievances. The men's experience of this means getting what they consider their rights has not been a very happy one in England, for the sympathetic striker very seldom gets any return for his self-enforced idleness.

Some of the leaders, including Philip Snowden, the Socialist, have even gone so far as to say that the strike does not benefit the worker. With both sides organized, and all the money on one side, the strike is oftener than not a failure.

Popularity of Golf.

It is estimated that nearly $30,000,000 is spent on golf in the United Kingdom every year, and that of this huge sum only a little less than half, or $12,500,000, goes to the caddies.

The estimate has been made by a well-known golf specialist, who after a careful census has placed the number of players in the country at roughly 250,000. Three-quarters of a million players pay on an average $25 a year each in club subscriptions, or a total of $6,250,000 which added to $250,000 for green fees, $6,250,000 for golf balls, $625,000 for clubs and the amount which it is calculated the caddies collect, makes the total mentioned. The estimate gives one ball a week to each player, at a cost of fifty cents each.

Each golfer's expenses are placed at a trifle over $100 a year on the game alone, his railway fares or other means of reaching the links, and of course what he loses on his games, not being computed.

Plays Worth a Fortune.

Sir Herbert Tree, the actor-manager, has been telling the public of some of the plays out of which he might have made fortunes, which however went to other managers after he had refused them.

Speaking at a farewell luncheon to a brother actor, Sir Herbert said that had he produced five plays which had been offered to him, but which he refused, he would be a rich man. These plays, "Peter Pan," "Kismet," "Diplomacy," "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "If I were King," all equally successful.

The truth was, Sir Herbert said, no one was infallible. The greater one's experience, the more one knew that the merit of the play as a commercial factor could only be gauged in front of the public.

The practice of highwaymen in some parts of Europe of stretching wire ropes across roads to stop automobiles has led to the invention of an attachment for cars to catch such ropes and lift them out of the way.

In a new electrical smoke abatement device the particles of soot are combined so that they weigh enough to fall back into a bin as they are charged by current led through fine wires at the top of a smokestack.

The propeller of a new boat is driven by the rise and fall of the waves on which the craft rests.

MYSTERY OF DUNBAR CHILD

Mrs. Anderson of Barnesville, N. C., Says Boy is Hers Despite Court's Ruling to Contrary—Case of Unusual Interest.

(Savannah Correspondence New York World.)

Mrs. Julia Anderson, of Barnesville, N. C., who claims to be the mother of the little boy now held as Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Dunbar, of Opelousa, La., whose kidnapping and subsequent recovery made columns of news at the time, has been found in a destitute condition in Savannah. She is trying to get to Columbia, Miss., to participate in the fight for the possession of the little boy when W. C. Walters, held there on the kidnapping charge, is put on trial in December.

According to the woman, Walters, who is a peddler, kidnapped her little boy, Bruce Anderson, at Barnesville, in February, 1912, seven months before the disappearance of the Dunbar child, whom Walters is charged with kidnapping. The child now in possession of the Dunbars is claimed by Mrs. Anderson. Mrs. Anderson proposes to join forces with Walters in his fight for acquittal. She says that Walters had acknowledged that he kidnapped her boy, Bruce, and that he has promised to return the child to her if he can regain his liberty and secure possession of him.

Mrs. Anderson came to Savannah from Wilmington, N. C. She left Wilmington with out a few cents above her railroad fare to Savannah. Here for two days and nights she remained at the union depot without sleeping or eating before her story was revealed. She was then taken in charge by the Associated Charities and through them she was given money to carry her a little farther on her way.

The Mix-Up.

Little Robert Dunbar disappeared from the home of his parents at Opelousa, La., August 23, 1912. The child taken from Walters and identified as Robert Dunbar is really her boy Bruce. Mrs. Anderson declares. She does not attempt to explain the great resemblance between the two children.

"My little boy, Bruce, disappeared about February 1st last year," she says. "At the time I was caring for the father and mother of this man, W. C. Walters, at Barnesville. He was at home at the time and he took a great fancy to my little boy. The little fellow seemed to love Walters, too, because the man was good to him. One day Walters took Bruce to the home of his sister at Bayboro. There came a heavy snowstorm, which bound up all the roads. Walters telephoned to me and then wrote, saying that as soon as the roads were open he would return with the boy. That was the last I ever heard of Walters and Bruce until I got a telegram the following April from newspaper men and attorneys in New Orleans, saying they had found my little boy and asking that I come to New Orleans and identify him. They forwarded me a ticket.

"I left on the first train and was met at Montgomery, Ala., by Paul Thompson, owner of the New Orleans Item. When we arrived at New Orleans they carried me to the home of a Mrs. Bilbo, where Bruce was staying, having been given to Mrs. Bilbo by Walters to be cared for, Walters being then in a hospital. Bruce and another little fellow were playing in the yard when we reached the place.

Boy Ran to Her.

"The first I saw of the boy was when he ran out of the door to join the other little fellow in the yard. I called him by his name and he turned and recognized me, and ran forward to meet me, but they would not let me have him.

"Later there was a preliminary hearing for Walters. The little boy was there. He tried to come to me then, too, but again he was restrained. And then they gave him to the Dunbars, who took him on to Opelousa. They took me to Opelousa, too. There was another fight there to get my baby. But they gave him to the Dunbars again. They wouldn't let him come to me. The Dunbars tried to buy me off. They offered me money to drop all court proceedings and let them have my baby boy. I wouldn't hear of it. When I told them I was going to get him or die they beat me. They beat me even after Mrs. Bilbo had sworn that little Bruce was given to her in July, a month and over before Robert Dunbar disappeared. She identified, and proved that she was correct, clothes she had made for the child before August 23, when Robert Dunbar disappeared.

"In the meantime Walters has been in jail at Columbia. There have already been four preliminary hearings, habeas corpus proceedings, I think they call them, which resulted in two judges deciding in favor of me and him and in two deciding in favor of the Dunbars. Walters' lawyers sent for me this time. I thought the case was coming to trial right away, but I understand now that court will not meet until December.

"Of course I am mad with Walters for kidnapping my baby. But he didn't do it because he wanted any money. He is a peddler. He's awfully lonesome on the road. He really loved little Bruce. He took him for company. And he treated the boy good, too. Bruce loved him. When they arrested him in Columbia the little fellow cried and bit and scratched and kicked when they tried to take him from Walters' arm. And when they wouldn't let him go to Walters in the court he screamed and fought again.

"My Bruce certainly is not Robert Dunbar. I believe the man who had Walters arrested knew it, too. There is a striking resemblance.

"I think he did it for the reward money. Then witnesses from Pearl county, Miss., swore that my baby was with Mrs. Bilbo for over a month before Robert Dunbar disappeared."

YEARLY LOSS BY FIRE.

Appalling Says William C. Redfield, an Address.

Philadelphia, Oct. 16.—The appalling yearly loss by fire in this country is only one of many manifestations of a spirit of wastefulness which has become an ingrained part of American thought and habit," declared William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce, in an address this afternoon, before the National Fire Prevention Conference.

The American people, the Secretary said, must be taught to open their eyes before losses occur, not after. He advocated the organization of a staff of demonstrators that would be at the service of a body similar to the fire preventing conference, whose duty it would be to go about the country addressing legislatures, labor unions, civic bodies and other organizations on the general subject of wastefulness.

Berlin Decision as to Housewives—Germany Richest County in Europe—A Chess Match—Slaying of Capt. Westernhagen.

(By Associated Press.)

Berlin, Oct. 18. — One German housewife at least has proved that she has a legal right to the regular weekly, semi-monthly or monthly allowance which her husband is accustomed to make for housekeeping expenses. If he fail to provide her with an allowance sufficient to conduct the household in a manner suitable to the family's station in life, she may proceed against him at law and the court will grant an interlocutory decree, under which, if necessary, a recalcitrant husband's wages may be garnisheed.

The foregoing rules of law have just been laid down by the Supreme Provincial Court of Brunswick. The court ruled further that the allowance must be paid in advance for a period of not less than one week. The probable expenses of the house cannot be properly estimated through calculations based upon an average for a shorter period, said the court, and the wife is to be considered the husband's agent within a provision of the Imperial civil code which prescribes that when an agent is commissioned to do something requiring a money outlay, the money thus required to be laid out must be advanced.

The husband cannot escape his obligations to advance the cash by opening a line of credit at various shops for his wife. She must be in a position to buy where she can buy at the greatest advantage, and must have the money necessary to enable her to do this.

The case that a man may have a spendthrift wife is provided for in the civil code. His remedy, in case the wife misuses her so-called "power of the keys", is to take her housekeeping into his own hands.

Richest Country in Europe.

Germany is now the richest country in Europe, with an aggregate wealth of about $74,000,000,000, and an annual income for its people of about $9,524,000,000. Such are the conclusions of Dr. Karl Helfferich, a director of the Deutsche Bank and one of the most eminent financial authorities of Germany. He finds that the national wealth of Germany is greater than that of Great Britain or France, as es-

Shut-Out King of Baseball World.

Walter Johnson, who gets an automobile because a commission of newspaper men have declared his service to his team of greater value than those of any other player in the American League, was not of voting age when he pitched his first game in fast company. He was born in Humboldt, Kan. on November 6, 1887, and he made his debut in the American League on August 2, 1907, Detroit being the first team to get a chance to bat against the phenom. Johnson did not twist the tigers' tail and neither did the tiger claw him so that he had to seek medical aid.

Johnson pitched eight innings against them, limiting the Jenningites to two runs and six hits. His discoverer, Cliff Blankenship, batted for him in the eighth and Tom Hughes finished up the game, which was a Detroit victory 3 to 2. Of the men who took part in the game in which Johnson made his debut, only Johnson himself, Tom Hughes, Sam Crawford and Ty Cobb remain in fast company.

Though he lost his first game, Johnson had the satisfaction of knowing that his work had pleased Manager Joe Cantillon and Walter was immediately considered one of the regular Washington pitchers and took his turn in the box along with Tom Hughes, Cy Falkenberg, Charley Smith and Hank Gehring, since dead. Johnson, in the Fall of 1907, was never once hammered hard by any of his opponents and most of the games he dropper were by low scores. Going up against the St. Louis Browns for the first time he was returned a loser, 1 to 0. Barney Pelty pitching against him. The first time Johnson twirled against the Athletics he dropped his battle, 3 to 2, Eddie Plank opposing him.

Johnson's New York debut was accomplished on September 12, 1907. Then he blanked the Highlanders, which ever since has been one of his favorite occupations, 2 to 0. He was particularly active in using the brush on them in September, 1908, blanking them on Friday, September 4; Saturday, September 5, and Monday, September 7th.

In those three games the New York team acquired a dozen hits, making six in the first game, four in the second and two in the third. The way that Johnson came to pitch three games in a row for Washington that year was that of the four pitchers Manager Cantillon took with him to New York all save Johnson were stricken with ailments.

Tom Hughes and Jesse Tannehill both found they had sore arms and Bert Keely was felled by tonsilitis. Johnson undoubtedly would have pitched all four games of that series had he not been hit by a pitched ball while he was whitewashing the New Yorks for the third successive time.

As a kalsominer Johnson is in a class by himself. No major league pitcher ever has kept his adversaries away from the plate 44 times in his first seven seasons. This is Johnson's achievement from 1907 to 1913, inclusive, and in 1907, it must be taken into consideration that he was with the Senators only one-third of the campaign. The auto trophy winner has pitched 11 shut-out games this year, previously having 33 such events to his credit. Johnson has whitewashed New York 11 times; Cleveland six times; Philadelphia six times; St. Louis six times; Boston five times; Chicago five times and Detroit five times.

Johnson never has been able to pitch a no-hit game in fast company, but he thrice has almost turned the trick. In the opening game of the campaign in 1910 he limited the Athletics to one safety, made by J. Franklin Baker, and that some season he confined the Browns to a single hit, poled by Arthur Truesdale. On June 10th of this year Detroit was able to obtain only one hit off him.

Johnson has lost only seven games this year, the men who have vanquished him being Ray Collins, of Boston, twice (each time by a score of 1 to 0) Bill Steen and Vean Gregg, of Cleveland and Joe Bush (twice) and Carroll Brown of the Athletics.

The average number of runs obtained off Johnson this year per game is 1.4; average number of hits 5.86.

timated by the economists of those countries, although the latter have a greater wealth per head, owing to their smaller populations. He estimates the wealth of the average German at between $1,074 and $1,190, compared with an English estimate of $1,214 for England, and a French estimate for France of $1,405, and with the estimate of the Census Bureau for the United States of $1,310.

In earning or income capacity, however, the average German lies between the Englishman and the Frenchman, the German income being estimated at $127, the French (by the French authority) at $122, while the Briton is far in the lead with an income of $194.

One of the most striking features of Dr. Helfferich's calculations, however, is the tremendous growth in the earning capacity of the German people, which may soon bring the nation to the same position of financial predominance in Europe as it now posesses in military power. He estimates the annual income of the German nation about 1895 at between $5,250,000,000 to $6,000,000,000; at present, eighteen years later, it has grown, he estimates, to $9,524,000,000, and he claims that if the annual savings of the people and the latent growth of land and other values be combined, a total addition to the national wealth of about $2,380,000,000 is registered every year.

Chess Championship.

Chess editors in Germany declare that the game of chess has been commercialized under American influences and they claim a striking illustration of this in the match for the championship of the world that has just been arranged between Dr. Emanuel Lasker, who lived some years in New York, and Akiba Rubinstein, the foremost player of Russia.

According to the financial plans for the match, it is expected that the two players will divide nearly $10,000 between them. Dr. Lasker is now corresponding with some of the principal German chess clubs, soliciting their co-operation. He offers to have three games played in the rooms of any club that will contribute about $1,500 in return for this honor.

German writers contrast the Lasker Rubinstein match with the one played at Paris in 1858, between Paul Morphy and Adolf Anderssen, the German champion of that day. Anderssen, who was professor in a preparatory school at Breslau, was willing to rush to Paris during his brief Christmas holidays to play eleven games with Morphy, although there was no money staked on either side. On the other hand, Lasker and Rubinstein will have nearly a year to prepare for their great struggle, and it will last for three months.

The Mass Homicide.

The slaying of Captain von Westernhagen by Professor Heinrich Mass the painter, during court of honor proceedings on September 16th, has now been followed by two more shooting affairs in a court room, one of these also before a court of honor. No one was injured in the latter case, but in the other referred to two persons were wounded and the shooter killed himself.

Dr. Arndt, of Paderborn, had been engaged by a brother physician to represent him during his vacation. At the last minute, Arndt demanded more money for his services than had been agreed upon, and the other doctor had to accede. During his absence Arndt severely criticised his absent colleauge before the latter's patients, and advised one to sue the absent physician for malpractice. Arndt was called before a court of honor of his profession, a peculiarly German institution, and fined $75 for false and unprofessional conduct. He thereupon drew a revolver and opened fire. The presiding judge ducked beneath his desk, an example followed by every one else in the room, and Arndt's six shots went wild. He was overpowered and an investigation into his sanity will be made.

The other court-room shooting took place during a suit of trifling importance at Hamburg. The defendant, a hotel-keeper, opened fire from a revolver without warning, severely wounded two adverse witnesses and then blew out his own brains.

Cutter Seneca Takes Vessel in Charge for Smuggling.

Washington, Oct. 16—Recent wholesale smuggling of English merchandise, particularly women's dress goods, into the United States, led to the seizure of the schooner Woodward Abrahams by the revenue cutter Seneca off the Delaware capes today.

Suspicion had fallen upon the schooner and the Seneca had been on the lookout for the vessel in the Delaware river and around the capes for a week or more. The inspectors, at Philadelphia were notified to look beneath the schooner's cargo of plaster for about $100,000 worth of manifested goods from Nova Scotia.

The department is awaiting a full report from the inspectors.

Two bricks were recently thrown through a beautiful stained glass window of the American Protestant Episcopal church, and stones also were thrown through a dining room window of the rectory of the Rev. Dr. Watson, adjoining the church in Paris. Miss Minnie Vail, a woman of 45, formerly residing in New York, but for a long time a resident of Paris, was arrested and admitted before the examining magistrate that she had broken the windows. She said she was a suffragette, but added that she had private motives for her conduct, which she refused to disclose.

The cotton crop suffers an annual loss of about $2,000,000 as the result of the disease known as anthracnose, or boll-rot. In a report on the subject, the Department of Agriculture says that since the fungus can live on dead cotton bolls in the field for at least a year and in the seed for two or three years, there should be rotation of crops, cotton never should be planted where anthracnose was prevalent the year previous, while fully as important is the selection of healthy seed.

Watch Carefully the Child's Diet

Start Them Off Right With a Good Laxative and Then Watch Their Food.

Mothers are often unconsciously very careless about the diet of their children, forcing all to eat the same foods. The fact is that all foods do not agree alike with different persons. Hence, avoid what seems to constipate the child or to give it indigestion, and urge it to take more of what is quickly digested.

If the child shows a tendency to constipation it should immediately be given a mild laxative to help the bowels. By this is not meant a physic or purgative, for these should never be given to children, nor anything like salts, pills, etc. What the child requires is simply a small dose of the gentlest of medicines, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which, in the opinion of thousands of watchful mothers, is the ideal remedy for any child showing a tendency to constipation. So many things can happen to a constipated child that care is necessary. Colds, piles, headaches, sleeplessness, and many other annoyances that children should not have can usually be traced to constipation.

Many of America's foremost families are never without Syrup Pepsin, because one can never tell when some member of the family may need it, and all can use it. Thousands endorse it, among them Mrs. M. E. Patten, Valley Junction, Iowa, who is never without it in the house. Mrs. Patten says that Syrup Pepsin has done wonders for her boy Ralph, who was constipated from birth but is now doing fine. Naturally she is enthusiastic about it and wants other mothers to use it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists at 50 cents and $1 a bottle, the latter size being bought by those who already know its value, and it contains proportionately more.

RALPH M. PATTEN

Everyone likes Syrup Pepsin as it is very pleasant to the taste. It is also mild and non-griping and free rom injurious ingredients.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

Quantities of Products Consumed in Metropolis —New National Feast Day—Society Women in Business.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

New York, Oct. 18—New York is watching with intense interest the effect of the new tariff bill in the promised reduction in the cost of living.

That the people in this city have a large stake in the matter is shown by the fact that the city's annual food bill amounts to over $645,000,000 and that the largest items in this total are products on which duties have been removed by the Underwood-Simmons bill. If cheaper beef results from the free-listing of this article, for instance, it will make an appreciable difference in New York's meat bill, which now amounts to $175,000,000, with a yearly consumption of 880,000,000 pounds. Other products on which the tariff rates have been changed and which figure for large sums in this yearly budget of New Yorkers are sugar, 400,000,000 pounds, eggs, 150,000,000 dozen; potatoes, 150,000,000 pounds; and bread, 900,000,000 loaves. It is doubtful if any previcus tariff bill ever possessed so direct interest for the people of the city, or was weighted by such vast political possibilities.

This year for the first time a new National feast day is to be observed by some millions of Americans. This is Apple Day for which the third Tuesday in October has been appointed. It falls this year on October 21.

On that day every patriotic citizen is expected to regale himself with apples, apple sauce, apple pie, and as many other of the 197 forms in which it is officially declared that apples may be made appetizing as happens to be available to him. The father of Apple Day is U. T. Border, of Baltimore, an apple enthusiast who has pointed out that while we have a feast day dedicated to the great American bird, the turkey and the great American vegetable—the pumpkin, the great American fruit thus far is without any special recognition. As the characteristic fruit of the nation undoubtedly is the apple, the day selected to do honor to it has been placed at the time when the boughs hang heavy with their rosy-cheeked burdens and when the pickers are gathering to the harvest. Undoubtedly the observance of Apple Day will prove popular with the entire younger generation as well as with many of older years.

Society women—those who have the entree to New York's most exclusive circles and who keep up social obligations and spend their vacations in Newport or Europe—are also making places for themselves in the business world. Their field of endeavor is as broad and varied as their individualities. Of course art in its many phases has the call. The particular vocations that seem to offer most attraction to those accustomed to lives of ease and luxury are interior architecture, the decoration and furnishing of the homes of the wealthy, and landscape gardening in connection with such homes, though the hat shops and gown shops conducted by several ladies who enjoy the highest of family and social connections are patronized by the smartest and wealthiest members of society. One woman whose family name is the open sesame to exclusive society conducts a successful real estate business, while another earns a handsome income by operating a bureau of social requirements, acting as guide and mentor to those who are new to the rigors of the social game.

That the poor boy who is forced to make his own way in life still has opportunities to rise to the most commanding business positions is demonstrated by the experience of Edward J. Nally, who has just been elected Vice-President and General Manager of the largest wireless telegraph company in existence, with direct supervision of a system of communication that it rapidly being extended to all parts of the world. Mr. Nally began literally at the foot of the ladder, for his first job was that of a messenger boy in St. Louis. Presumably he was not the typical comic paper type of messenger boy for he has traveled in the course of the past thirty years from this humble beginning to one of the most important positions in his chosen field of business. Like Thomas Edison, another messenger boy who climbed to fame, Mr. Nally is a tireless worker and an omniverous reader, which goes to show that it is true today no less than in eariler times that it matters not so much where a boy starts as how steadily he travels after his start.

That here in Gotham is a saloon owner, ex-policeman and politician upon whom it was necessary to virtually thrust nearly $30,000 in cold cash is a true story in refreshing contrast with the widely heralded tales of graft in such circles. It was more than twenty years ago, that Thomas Meehan, now a candidate for alderman, received notice of the death of an aunt in England and advice that $28,000 had been bequeathed to him.

"Oh, what a joke! If it only were true! thought incredulous Thomas.

Many documents followed from time to time telling him to put in a claim for the fortune, but the excitement of being a New York policeman evidently had more attraction for him than a mere $28,000, so he continued to use his nightstick on the heads of river front hoodlums. Finally the letters became so insistent that he decided to trace the jokers. He called upon the local British Consul and communicated with English lawyers and soon was convinced that the legacy was not a myth. The lucky legatee recently went to England to collect his fortune.

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN.

Who Are "Just Ready to Drop."

When you are "just ready to drop," when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired-out next morning as when you went to bed, you need help.

Miss Lea Dumas writes from Malone, N. Y., saying: "I was in a badly run-down condition for several weeks but two bottles of Vinol put me on my feet again and made me strong and well. Vinol has done me more good than all the other medicines I ever took."

If the careworn, run-down women, the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Miss Dumas' example, they, too, would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is a wonderful, strength creator and body builder, and we sell it under a guarantee of satisfaction. You get your money back if Vinol does not help you.—Robt. R. Bellamy, druggist, Wilmington, N. C.

SOROSIS CORNER.

Better Babies Contests have been held in a number of places in this State this Fall and in all the greatest interest has been shown and a large number of babies have been entered. Already there has developed much interest locally in the Better Babies Contest to be held in this city in connection with the Fine Art and Industrial Exhibit in November. A contest was recently held in Wilkes county and the following from a Wilkesboro paper will be of interest:

"The sixth annual fair held in Wilkes county last week was a splendid success. One thousand school children were participants in the fair, and the boys' corn club, one of the largest in the United States, and the girls' tomato club took part. The fair just over is the first time the 'Better Babies Contest' has been staged. About 35 healthy youngsters were on display and averaged up well, the poorest developed scoring 85 points and the average being about 90 out of a possible 100. Nannie Selene Gentry scored 98 points and took first prize in Class A. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gentry. Joseph Hadley Hayes, son of Attorney and Mrs. Johnson J. Hayes, scored 98 points in Class B, and Julia Gwyn Finley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Finley, scored 96 1-2 points in Class C."

A writer in the Outlook, commenting on the far-reaching influences of the scientific baby show says:

"Within this year, so it is announced, one hundred thousand babies are likely to be examined, measured, and tested by competitive examinations in county, city and State contests. Unlike the baby show of the past, this new and scientific sort has no concern with dresses and ribbons, though it is to have prizes. Its prizes, however, will be offered to the losers—that is, to the babies who fail, at the time of the contest, to come up to the standard, but who show the best progress toward it in the next six months. State health departments, milk committees, child welfare organizations, and county and State fair associations are all joining hands in this scientific campaign for 'better babies,' planned by medical experts, and having for its object 'the standardization of the American child.' If there is a standard for calves and colts, why not for babies, in order that each mother may strive toward it for her child?

"The child should first attempt to sit at about the sixteenth week, be fairly successful about the fortieth and firmly seated at the tenth or eleventh month.

"The child should attempt to stand about the thirty-eighth week, and should be successful at eleventh or twelfth month; it should walk unsupported at the fourteenth or fifteenth month—certainly not later than the eighteenth. Precocity in walking is not desirable.

"Mrs. Margaret V. Clark, introduced this new sort of baby show at the Iowa State Fair last year, and its idea has been eagerly seized upon by all interested in child culture and eugenics. All sorts of information and help can be given to parents in the course of these scientific contests, and so far the deepest interest has been shown everywhere the plan has been tried. The standard of the normal, healthy American baby ought to be very high; and this scientific campaign to establish it is striking and valuable beyond any other new movement of the day."

After passing the law enforcement bills, the extraordinary session of the Tennessee Legislature adjourned Friday. In the Senate the vote cast against the three measures ranged from two to five.

COMPULSORY VOTING.

Advocated by Josephus Daniels in New Haven Speech.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 16.—In advocating compulsory voting, Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels in the Yale News today says:

"We have come to a time in our National life when the compulsory ballot must decide for itself. Sovereign voters of this Republic are abdicating the most important duty of citizenship. Should they be allowed in their way to desert, any more than a man should be allowed the right to desert the army in time of war? If we require our citizens as we properly do, to serve on the jury, to bear arms when called upon, to obey any process of the court, however much he may object to giving testimony, to work on the roads in many districts and to pay taxes whether he aproves them or not, may we not also make it compulsory for him to vote? The chief and most far-reaching attribute of citizenship is the use of the ballot. If he can forget his duty the State must compel him to recall it."

CATARRH SUFFERERS

Get Immediate and Effective Relief by Using Hyomei.

Hyomei is nature's true remedy for catarrh. There is no stomach dosing—you breathe it.

When using this treatment, you breathe healing balsams and effectively reach the most remote air cells of the throat, nose and lungs, the catarrhal germs are destroyed—quick and sure relief results.

Hyomei often restores health to chronic cases that had given up all hope of recovery. Its best action is at the start of the disease when the breath is becoming offensive, and constant sniffling, discharges from the nose, droppings in the throat and frequent sneezing, or that choked up feeling begins to make life a burden. At the first symptoms of catarrhal trouble, such as crusts in the nose, watery eyes, hawking and morning choking, surely use Hyomei and see how quickly you get relief. All druggists sell it.

The complete outfit, including inhaler and bottle of liquid, costs but $1.00; extra bottles of liquid, if later needed, 50 cents. Hyomei is sold by Robt. R. Bellamy, with guarantee to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

OWNS A SEAGIRT KINGDOM

Marchioness of Graham Rules Over Nearly 5,000 Subjects on Isle of Arran.

Arran, an interesting Scottish island kingdom, is ruled over by a lady, the beautiful marchioness of Graham, wife of the eldest son and heir of the duke of Montrose. It was as Lady Mary Hamilton that the marchioness inherited this little monarchy from her father, the late duke of Hamilton, whose only child she was. As sole owner of this seagirt kingdom, the marchioness rules wisely and well over loyal subjects numbering in all nearly 5,000, says the Wide World.

The island, which is some nineteen miles long and ten and a half broad, with an area of a hundred and sixty-eight square miles, has had a romantic history. Along the cliffs of the south coast there are several large caverns, one being known as the king's cave. Here Robert the Bruce is said to have hidden himself for some time, while it was from Brodick bay that Bruce sailed to Carrick on his expedition for the recovery of the crown. There are many interesting ruins, too, such as Lochranza castle, once the residence of the Scots kings. Then there are the cairns, standing stones, and stone circles. A few years ago several stone coffins were found in a cairn 200 feet in circumference. Broderick castle, the owner's residence, is on the site of an old and historic structure, but it has been rebuilt within recent times in Scotch baron style. Situated upon the northwest shore of Brodick bay, its position is an exceptionally fine one. In 1902, when cruising in these waters, King Edward paid a visit to the castle.

NOT IN THE LEAST ALARMED

Colored Girl, Unused to Railroad Travel, Thought Accident Merely the Regular Mode.

A writer relates the following incident: A few years after the war he had occasion to visit Richmond with his family, and, living at the time in the county of Patrick, 50 miles from any railroad station, very few of the darkies in that county had ever seen a railroad train. A nurse was a necessary part of the family equipage and he had secured the services of a coal-black specimen about fifteen years of age, who was as quick-witted as usual, but was as veritable a Topsy as ever "growed."

The party took the train at the nearest station and after a few hours' run a broken rail threw the train off the track. Some of the cars made a revolution down an embankment and some were lodged on its incline at an angle of 45 degrees. Great consternation, of course, ensued. The men were shouting and the women and children screaming. After great difficulty our party scrambled out of the coach on the steep incline of the embankment. Finding no bones broken with the wife or little one, the writer, who was surprised at the placid, undisturbed appearance of the nurse, who, holding the baby in her arms, looked upon the scene as if nothing had happened, said:

"Milly, were you much frightened?"

"No, sah," she said. "I thought it always stopped that way."—Harper's Magazine.

Dogs on Menus.

The note of black in dinner table decorations is the dominating note of this season's hospitality in Paris. One finds in it dainty menus and name cards, with a silhouette of the fashionable chow, Pomeranian, or pug dog in jetblack adorning the top, and these are seen on all the most fashionable dinner and luncheon tables in Paris just now. Another new idea in table stationery is a menu card which shows a delicately colored silhouette top of a couple dancing the two-step, the turkey trot, and the bunny hug. New ideas in name cards are to be noted in some exquisitely dainty gilt baskets filled with miniature artificial flowers—rosebuds, violets, May blossoms, or primroses—set in moss, with a card bearing the guests' name standing out from the center of each.

Man Wants but Little.

"Please, mum," said a tramp, "would you be so kind as to let me have a needle and thread?"

"Well, y-e-s," said the housewife, at the door. "I can let you have that."

"Thankee, mum. Now, you'd oblige me very much if you'd let me have a bit of cloth for a patch."

"Yes, here is some."

"Thankee very much, mum. It's a little different in color from my suit, I see. Perhaps, mum, you could spare me some of your husband's old clothes that this patch will match."

"Well, I declare! You're clever, my man, and I'll give you an old suit. Here is one."

"Thankee greatly, mum. I see it's a little large, mum, but if you'll kindly furnish me with a square meal, mebby I can fill it out."

There are three indictments against the free lance editor.

The extra session of the General Assembly adjourned shortly after 8 o'clock Monday night, having disposed of the business for which it was convened—the adoption of proposals for amendments to the constitution upon a vote of the people at the next general election, and a so-called settlement of the freight rate question. Much local legislation was also hurried through the session, 497 acts and 19 resolutions, all told.

News comes to the Fayetteville Observer that a negro named Elliott was found on the A. & Y. branch of the A. C. L. Railroad Thursday morning early at Hayne, a station between Fayetteville and Wilmington. It was at first thought that he was killed by the night freight train, but a cut on the head, which was supposed to have caused death, was evidently not made by a train, but by an instrument in the hands of a murderer.

The Fayetteville Index learns that the Raleigh, Charlotte & Southport Railway will be running its trains into Charlotte in about 30 days. The track has been completed to Charlotte, with the exception of one bridge to be built, and the trains of this company will be running into Charlotte before the holidays begin. Trains now run to Mt. Gilead. The place selected for a station is in the center of Charlotte and is said to be one of the nicest locations in the city.

After a three days session in Raleigh, the conference of the wholetimed county health officers of the State adjourned Wednesday and returned to their homes. The gathering of the health officers, only 10 now in North Carolina, devoting their full time to the health interests of the counties they represent, was for the purpose of finding out and the adoption of suitable methods for uniform work in the counties where they are employed. The meeting was in every way successful.

A delegation of Wilmington business men called on Governor Craig and the Corporation Commission Tuesday with a view of having those officials join in some redress for the points in the East that were discriminated so unjustly against in the legislative fiasco in Raleigh recently; it is expected that it will take 90 days to get the compromise offered by the railroads into effect; indeed, if it ever does go in effect. The intra-State rate bill will likely get into effect in about 60 days, if anybody ever discovers just what it provides.

Every Honorable Man Is Invited to Attend (and Become a Charter Member) the First Meeting of the Charter Members of the New

Wilmington Commercial Club

To Be Held in the Elks' Club Rooms

Tomorrow Night--Monday--at 8:30 P. M.

More than likely you have not been asked to associate yourself with this movement. Blame this on the inactivity of our committees. The fact remains, you are not only invited to become a charter member, but in the interest of Greater Wilmington we appeal to your personal sense of obligation, your patriotic and public spirited citizenship to attend the meeting tomorrow night. Permanent organization will be effected, officers elected, and by-laws adopted.

What Is Public Spirit?

Public Spirit is that force or influence which prompts or inspires a man with a real live, earnest, unselfish desire to do something for the good of the community in which he lives, from which he will derive no direct personal benefit, and this at a sacrifice to his own time, brains, energy and money. ¶ It is time we all classed ourselves as public spirited men and do something for Wilmington. It requires only the desire.

Come to this meeting of the Commercial Club tomorrow night, have a voice in its organization and learn its purposes. It will commend itself to you.

THEATRICAL

The Academy of Music will only make one offering this week, but that will be of great importance and will be sufficient to appease all theatre-goers. It will be the special appearance next Saturday, at matinee and night, of Primrose and Dockstader's Minstrels.

Could anything more notable be imagined in the minstrel line? and it is only by way of a big guarantee on the part of Mr. S. A. Schloss that the attraction was obtained. Wilmington, on account of being off the main line, would have been given the go-by, but Mr. Schloss, feeling that Wilmington theatre-goers would appreciate the big attraction and would like to see it, made the company a guarantee. Hence, the notable event for next Saturday. At an early date the Academy will present a stupendous music show in "The Girl of My Dreams," while another near-attraction is the big Brady production of "Little Women."

The Brilliant Minstrel Event.

George Primrose and Lew Dockstader, veteran stars of the minstrel world, who have reunited their respective minstrel companies after remaining apart for nearly ten years, will be the attraction at the Academy of Music at matinee and night, Saturday.

Messrs. Primrose and Dockstader will be accompanied by an all-prominent aggregation of burnt calk vocalists, dancers, instrumentalists and fun makers in what is heralded as the most joyous minstrel event of a decade—a performance that sets a new high-water mark both in rounded excellence of delineation of negro character and picturesque sumptuousness of adornment. "The Temple of Mirth and Melody" is the title of the first part. Tom Brown will be seen at one end of the half circle as the curtain rises and "Happy Jack" Lambert at the other. Harry Sievers will occupy the interlocutor's chair. Raymond Wylie, the phenomenal male soprano, and other excellent ballad singers will be heard prior to the entrance of Mr. Primrose and Mr. Dockstader. In the first part Mr. Primrose will sing to the accompaniment of which he will execute the famous Primrose soft shoe dance, that has made him known as "America's Most Graceful Dancer," and Mr. Dockstader will tell some of his inimitable stories. The olio will open with a musical idea of camp life in the Philippines by the Four Meteors, an exceptionally able cotorie of vocalists. They will be followed by Mr. Dockstader in his impersonation of the Bull Moose Chief, Colonel Roosevelt, and his speech to the suffragettes. Mr. Primrose, assisted by Foley and Murphy will present a series of novel terpsichorean divertisements. Then comes the Six Musical Brown Brothers, who will present what is said to be the best musical act on the American stage. The afterpiece, "Down Home," is from the pen of Mr. Primrose. The playlet is in four scenes, which are said to be most elaborate. The entire company takes part in this number. A street parade will be given on the day of the performance at noon, headed by Messrs. Primrose and Dockstader. The tour is under the personal management of Earl Burgess.

Special Prices for Minstrels.

So popular has been the popular price matinee presented by the Academy of Music this season, that Manager Comes yesterday decided to have a small scale of prices apply to the matinee the famed Primrose and Dockstader Minstrels are to present at the Academy Saturday of this week. The prices for the afternoon performance will be 25, 50 and 75 cents, figures really unheard of for a minstrel performance. The night scale will, of course, run to $1.50, as the Primrose and Dockstader show will not play for less and charges a like figure on Broadway. Seats for the minstrels will go on sale promptly at 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning at J. Hicks Bunting's drug store.

On the Way.

Of the coming attractions at the Academy of Music none will be hailed with greater delight than "Little Women," the dramatization of Louisa M. Alcott's much-loved story, which ran all last season at the Playhouse, New York. It might be mentioned also that "Little Women" was the subject of a special article a few weeks ago in the Saturday Evening Post, in which it was characterized as one of the most beautiful productions that the American stage has ever known.

The company that William A. Brady is sending to Wilmington is in no sense a one-night-stand aggregation. It is the one that will play engagements in New Orleans, Atlanta, Memphis and the other principal cities of the South. The stage settings will be identical with those used during the New York run of the piece.

For the convenience of the great number of women and children who will want to see in real life, the beloved characters of Miss Alcott's story, a special 3 o'clock matinee will be given. The matinee has been arranged with the full knowledge that Thursday is not a regular "matinee day" in Wilmington, but the management is confident that the audience at that performance will be as large as in the evening, when capacity business is assured.

The date for "Little Women" is Thursday, October 30th, and for lovers of wholesome, well-acted plays, fresh from New York, it will be the red letter day of the season.

Vaudeville at Academy.

Vaudeville will open the Academy of Music on Monday. This new venture will be under the management of Mr. Frank W. Peiffer which assures the quality and refinement of the performances. The bill for the opening week promises to be one of the best shows ever given for a popular price admission. For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the management has secured The Stillings, "Those Rag Time Banjo Fiends," introducing high class, popular and ragtime selections, solos and duets. Mr. Bert Laurenz "Singing, talking and dancing comedian," McLinn Trio, "Comedy acrobats and sensational equilibrists. For Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Elmore and Bartlett, "the leading lady and the old maid"; Nevins and Browns, "Refined comedy entertainers," Miss Dorothy Hayes, "That irresistible girl with the double voice," Mr. Herbert Swift, "Extra clever comedy musical monologist." In addition to this regular programme the management has booked the Belmont Comedy Quartette for the entire week, this is a male quartette with lots of original comedy and swell harmony singing and it is just the kind of an act which is so popular with the people of Wilmington. There will be Mutual Service moving pictures changed daily. The Academy Orchestra will play at all matinee and night performances under the direction of Prof. E. Barbey. The afternoon performances start 3:30 sharp and the night shows will be continuous starting at 7:30.

Big Show at Bijou.

It was another big day that yesterday at popular Bijou. It was one big for show, audiences, joy, in fact, everything save price of admission, which always remains 5 cents. It was one of the biggest and best week-ends the Bijou has ever had. Tomorrow the people's favorite amusement spot will inaugurate what it expects will be another superb week, the film selections being the rarest type and each a hummer. The prince of all fun pictures will blaze the way tomorrow. It is "An Exclusive Pattern." A man buys a vest of a pattern the dealer tells him is exclusive. So when the vest is stolen he thinks he can find it easily. The police make wholesale arrests, as it turns out that scores of people have similar vests. What the people who are arrested do to the clothier is a plenty.

The latest Pathe Weekly is also a feature of tomorrow's bill, showing many current events in graphic manner and ending up with a comic "Mutt and Jeff" incident. Mutt offers a solution for the Mexican situation.

Three other fine films on tomorrow are "The Panama Hat Industry," "Blazing a New Trail in Glacier National Park" and "The Sage Industry in Borneo."

Athletic Film at Grand.

"The Stroke of the Phoebus Eight," a great athletic story, one with a punch and that will stir the heart, heads tomorrow's great offering at the cozy, handsome Grand Theatre. It is Edison's dandiest and it will immensely delight all. A select cast of players, including Miriam Nesbitt, Phyllis Stuckley, Marc MacDermott and Charles Vernon, will be seen in the photoplay. Every lover of sport, in fact, every one should see this great film.

There are many other superb film stars on tomorrow's Grand bill, including Lubin's "Fashion's Toy," which is the story of a rich woman who adopts a poor girl. Finding the latter about to win her lover away from her, she turns her out of home. What follows is not only of high dramatic interest, but carries a big moral with it.

A great Pathe is also on tomorrow's delightful menu in "Across the Chasm." It is another tale with a swing and a grip that will please all.

The Grand still continues to offer that small price of admission, 5 cents, afternoon and night for a big show.

A new type of automatic coupler for railroad cars in tests has worked as well with the knuckles closed as when open, on sharp curves and at high speeds.

WHAT EVERYBODY SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE VITAL STATISTICS LAW

Everybody should know the A B C's about the new vital statistics law. Why? Because you and I will have to comply with it once when we die, and all North Carolinians born after October 1st this year will have to comply with it twice. It is at least worth something to know about a law that touches us at both ends of life, but this law will do more. Indirectly it will keep in touch with us all our life. It will be ten times more valuable in five or six years than it is now and, like a few other well known things, it improves with age.

The law itself contains more printed matter than two whole pages of this newspaper and is "curst hard reading" at that. For the reader's benefit we give the gist of how the law operates, what it requires and briefly the benefits we may expect from it.

Operation of the Law.

The law provides, first of all, that the matter of its enforcement shall be in the hands of the State Board of Health. This, as we shall see later, is because it was recognized that primarily it is a health measure. As passed originally, the law was to go into effect July 1st this year, but another section gave 90 days for the local authorities to get the local machinery into operation. This made it Oct. 1st before any births or deaths could be registered under the new law.

For purposes of enforcement the mayors of incorporated towns appoint a local registrar of births and deaths in each town, and the chairmen of the boards of county commissioners appoint a local registrar in each township of the county. This will make in all about 1,390 local registrars in the State, all reporting and directly responsible to the State Board of Heatlh.

Briefly, it is the duty of each local registrar to send in to the State Board of Health, between the first and the tenth day of each month, complete and properly filled out certificates for every birth and death that has occurred within his jurisdiction during the preceding month. On the certificate of death is contained such information in regard to the deceased as the name, residence, age, sex, color, etc., date and medical cause of death. On the birth certificate will be given the full name of the child, the place of birth, sex, and date of birth, as well as the name, residence, age, and other information in regard to the father and mother. In making out a death certificate, the undertaker secures all the information relative to the deceased from friends and learns the medical cause of death from the doctor. When there has been no doctor in attendance, the local health officer makes out the medical cause of death; or where there is no health officer the local registrar makes out the cause of death. Whenever there is any reason to suspect foul play the local registrar may refer the case to the coroner.

In the case of births it is the duty of the physician, midwife or person acting as such to file a certificate of birth with the local registrar. In case there is no physician, midwife or person acting as midwife it shall be the duty of the father or of the mother of the child, the householder or owner of the premises, or manager of the institution in which the birth occurred, to report to the local registrar the facts regarding the birth.

Furthermore, to make sure that the records of all births and deaths are complete, not only will the local registrar continue to use due diligence to see that every birth and death in his territory is reported, but there will be state inspectors making investigations at irregular intervals.

Value of the Law.

It is not contemplated that there will be any very serious difficulty in securing complete registration of all births and deaths when the people once appreciate the value of such a law. It will take perhaps five minutes to fill out a birth certificate and another five minutes to fill out a death certificate and that insures that full official record will be made, and filed in the state capitol for all time, of the vital events in the lives of all our citizens.

From a public health point of view the tabulation of vital statistics shows where death rates are high and where health work is needed. In a few years the effect of health work can be shown and the value of a health officer can be shown in his ability to reduce the death rate. Such records also prove legitimacy, the right to attend school, to work in factories, to marry, to vote, to pay taxes, to hold office, to obtain life insurance, to enter into partnership, to fix responsibility for crimes, etc. By means of such records we can obtain indisputable proof of death for fixing insurance claims, pension rights, etc. Statistics obtained from such records also have educational value. In fact, when a vital statistics law has been in effect for some time, the uses to which it is put are legion. The only reason we don't appreciate their value more is because we have never had such a law.

ALWAYS THE DOMINANT MAN

The manner in which the late J. Pierpont Morgan sometimes made purchases of works of art and rare bric-a-brac is well illustrated by one of his visits to an art store in Washington, where he obtained quite a number of valuable pieces now in his New York collection.

Mr. Morgan being here for business purposes, dropped into the store and looking over the collection found a Queen Anne teapot that pleased his fancy.

"What do you want for this Queen Anne teapot?" he asked.

"Three thousand dollars, Mr. Morgan," replied the art dealer.

"It's not worth that much. I know what you pay for these things abroad," he retorted rather tartly.

"But, Mr. Morgan," insisted the dealer, "the duty is very high."

"I know what the duty is, too," flashed back the financier, who held the rare bit of porcelain up to the light. "I'll give you $2,400 for it."

"Well, Mr. Morgan, if it pleases you take it along."

In a moment a check was written for amount offered, and the financier, who wore a sack coat, thrust the delicate treasure into his side pocket and walked out. Most purchasers would have arranged to have the valuable piece carefully boxed and forwarded by express, properly insured, but it was not so with the world-famous collector. If any one had jolted him that afternoon that $2,400 Queen Anne would have been broken into fragments.

"It was Mr. Morgan's way," said the dealer, in recalling the incident.—Washington Post.

REAL WHITE HOUSE RULERS

President Wilson has to exercise a very high order of diplomacy in his well balanced treatment of the four "White House Babies." These are his grandnieces and nephews and they are little for the honor and dignity of the Chief Magistrate of the American people. The White House and grounds are a tremendously nice place and Granduncle Woodrow beats anything alive as a contributor to their happiness.

The four are Baby Jo Cothran, who lives in the White House; James Wilson Howe and his four-year-old sister Virginia, and five-year-old Elizabeth Wilson. Little Jo is somewhat in the lead, but when the presidential preference is too strongly shown the others demur and the mighty Executive of 90,000,000 takes good care to switch at once and divide his attentions.

The children climb upon the presidential knee, sometimes singly, but also in quadruplex. They often demand a particular story and want it told in a particular way that has suited their fancy once before. If the president doesn't recall exactly how he told it "last time" the babies level on him a look of surprise that borders on pity for his shortcoming.

Some Talker.

They were talking about the conversational power of the fair sex at a reception in Washington a few weeks ago, when Congressman Augustus Stanley of Kentucky cited a case that left no doubt as to mother's ability to win the first prize.

Some time back, according to the congressman, a friend of his visited Niagara falls, taking with him his wife and his wife's sister. Immediately on arriving and securing hotel quarters the party set out to see the wonderful sight, wifey and wifey's sister talking as they walked along on a million interesting subjects.

"Say, John," said wifey, turning to the old man after they had gone quite a distance, "aren't we getting near the falls?"

"Yes," was the prompt reply of John. "If you will stop talking a minute you will hear the thunder of the water quite plainly."—Philadelphia Telegram.

Farmer's Fight With Rats.

Finding a score or more of rats in his granary, Frank McClain, a Washington county farmer, entered with a club, shut the door and started to do battle with them. The animals had all entered through one hole, and, as they could not leave simultaneously, those which were unable to reach the point of exit turned on the farmer and gave him battle.

Three of them ran up his leg underneath his trousers, and these he squeezed to death with his hands. Others swarmed up his clothing. Alarmed for his safety, McClain called his wife, who was outside awaiting developments, and she opened the door and allowed the rats to escape. McClain was not severely bitten, owing to the fact that he was wearing heavy woolen clothing as well as an overcoat.

STATE COLLEGE SETS PACE IN HEALTH WORK

HOW A. AND M. COLLEGE IS HANDLING TYPHOID.

First College in State to Adopt Anti-typhoid Vaccination Free.

A. and M. College at Raleigh is wide awake on health matters. It has that any case of typhoid fever was that any cases of typhoid fever was too much typhoid for a college. When, two years ago, three cases occurred during the summer vacation, an examination of the premises was made by the college authorities, but no local cause was found. This summer a few cases occurred just as the College closed. Not many colleges would have paid any attention to a few scattered cases of typhoid. Not so with A. and M. They insisted upon a thorough examination by an expert, and as the State Board of Health has no epidemiologist, it secured such an expert from the Government for this investigation. After three weeks of diligent search no direct cause for any more typhoid could be found around the College than exists generally throughout the State.

But the college authorities were not content to stop there. Immediately upon the beginning of the school term a few weeks ago, the President, Dr. Hill, and Dr. Tucker, the college physician, began making arrangements to get anti-typhoid vaccine, free of charge, for all the students who would avail themselves of it. Since the vaccine was offered, fully four-fifths of the students have presented themselves for vaccination.

This is indeed a very commendable act, both on the part of the college authorities and the students, and it is to be hoped that practically every student will avail himself of this free anti-typhoid vaccination before the year is over. It is not to be expected that a single case of typhoid will occur among any of the vaccinated students this year.

Value of Anti-Typhoid Vaccine.

The best figures obtainable in regard to the value of anti-typhoid vaccine are from the U. S. Army. Since our heavy losses from typhoid in the Spanish War, our army began giving anti-typhoid vaccination in 1909. Only about 830 men out of 57,000 were vaccinated that year. The next year, however, over one-fourth of the army was vaccinated against typhoid, and typhoid began to decrease. In March, 1911, anti-typhoid vaccination was made compulsory in the army and navy, and the real results of this action are plainly shown in the figures for last year and part of the present year. The average case rate per 100,000 soldiers for 9 years, from 1901 to 1909 inclusive, was 536. After partial vaccination in 1910 it decreased to 232, and with compulsory vaccination in March, 1911, the rate decreased to 80 for that year, and to 26 for last year. For the first 5 months of this year no cases have been reported. Likewise the death rate from typhoid decreased from an average of 37 per 100,000 for 9 years, from 1901 to 1909, to 16 per 100,000 in 1910, to 11 in 1911, and to 3 in 1912, with no deaths during the first 5 months of this year. From these records there can be no doubt as to the efficiency of anti-typhoid vaccination.

Length of Immunity.

About the only question left is the matter of the length of immunity conferred. Unfortunately, our experience with anti-typhoid vaccine has not been long enough to prove the general length of the immunity conferred. In the army, a very conservative practice has been formed of vaccinating against typhoid and smallpox every 4 years. There are no grounds for setting these arbitrary standards, but it is thought to be much better to be on the safe side. In all probability, immunity from typhoid is much like immunity from smallpox. In some cases it may last for only 4 or 5 years, and in other cases it may last a lifetime. As yet, however, it is not conceded that typhoid vaccination is quite as effective or as lasting as smallpox vaccination.

Another singular coincidence has been that in over 200,000 vaccinations against typhoid in the army, not a single death has resulted from the vaccination itself. This, of course, is due very largely to proper care in administering the vaccine.

Within a short time it is to be hoped that not only the other colleges and schools of the State will follow the example of A. and M., but that anti-typhoid vaccine will become quite general among the public at large. Persons that travel or camp or are exposed to typhoid infection should by all means avail themselves of this precaution.

About the middle of October the State Laboratory of Hygiene will be making its own anti-typhoid vaccine. This vaccine will be supplied at only a fraction of the price now charged by manufacturers, and it is to be hoped that by this means our present high death rate from typhoid will show a reduction.

THE REPORT OF THE SPIES.

(The Story.)

The wilderness of the Sinaitic Peninsula was God's school house for his people. There he taught them his law and worship. The course of study covered a whole year. The graduation was to have occurred at Kadesh. Sin and folly marred it all. The "Commencement" of Israel in Canaan was set back a generation.

The appointment of the spies was a gross insult to Jehovah. He had assured the people that the land was good. He had promised the possession of it to them. That should have been enough. In the Lord's name, they ought to have set up their banners and gone up at once to possess it. The long vista back to Egypt was studded with the memorials of God's faithfulness and power. The fact that he had been so mindful of them in the past should have been to them a pledge of future blessing.

They should have reasoned, "If God would take us out of the invincible clutch of a great world-power, Egypt, what prevents his planting us securely in Canaan?" But in the epidemic of fear, the breaking of Pharaoh's inflexible will, the plagues of their cruel oppressors, the deliverance at the Red Sea and the Rephidim, sweetened waters and manna, the wonders of Sinai—all were forgotten. Israel conferred with flesh and blood in preference to taking counsel of the Lord, with the invariable and miserable outcome of such a course.

By this very deed the people showed their unfitness to enter the land of promise. A more palpable exhibition could scarcely be conceived of. The Lord acceded to their request, but knew that in doing so Canaan was as effectually closed to Israel as Eden was to the first guilty pair.

Moses, with the consent of the Lord, proceeded to choose, with the greatest care possible, a prince from each tribe. No doubt he strongly hoped that their report would restore the spirit of the wavering host.

To this day Palestine is sort of bridge between Asia and Africa, on which there are always strangers passing back and forth. This little company would not necessarily attract attention, especially as they were probably attired as Egyptians, and likely spoke the language of that country fluently. If ever they got into close quarters, they might be trusted to get out by their wits. They belonged to a race notorious for finesse.

After an absence of 40 days, they returned to the camp of Israel, bringing with them samples of fruits that would have put to shame the best exhibit of a modern horticultural society. Their report was listened to with avidity.

The exordium was gracious. It pictured, in the lavish language of the Orient, the phenomenal fruitfulness of Canaan. But the exordium was short. It was a mere ornamental fringe to a body, the warp of which was unbelief, and the woof distrust. "The land is desirable, of course, but its possession is impracticable." The towering stature, the invincible prowess, the vast number of the inhabitants, are pictured with most dispiriting effect. The Hebrews were accustomed to the sight in Egypt of ponderous fortifications. But these were on the dead level of the Nile Valley. To see such walls lifted upon the top of inaccessible cliffs would produce the extreme effect of impregnability. They could hardly tell where the natural base left off and the artificial superstructure began. The cities seemed walled to the very heavens.

Two men hang the jury. Caleb and Joshua, dauntless souls, full of faith, demand a hearing. They hush, for a moment at least, the ever-augmenting murmur of disappointment, distrust, and incipient rebellion. They admit the difficulties, but at the same moment sound the bugle-call of faith: "Let us go up at once and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it!"

But infidelity is now rampant. Demoralization is now complete. The whole congregation spend a night in weeping. On every side the exclamation is heard, "Death in Egypt would have been better than this". Treason and revolt are in the air. The proposition is openly made to elect a captain to lead them back to Egypt. In vain do Moses and Aaron prostrate themselves before the assembly, and Joshua and Caleb rend their clothes.

The Teachers' Lantern.

The inveterate irruption of sin at epochal moments in national and personal history, with all its train of disastrous consequences, is well calculated to emphasize and illustrate its damning nature.

While Moses was bringing the law down from Sinai, the people were making and worshiping the golden calf in the plain. When the beautiful tabernacle was complete, the priesthood instituted, and the ritual prescribed, two drunken young priests went reeling into the sacred place and Presence with strange fire in their censers. So in this instance, when Israel stood at length on the threshold of Canaan, fully equipped to enter, there was a cowardly halt, the use of a human expedient which discounted the truthfulness, fidelity, and power of God. The lapse was complete.

Caleb and Joshua had a close call to martyrdom. The stones were uplifted. God and his servants were openly and grossly insulted. The election of a new captain, and a return to Egypt were proposed.

How insidious the approaches of sin. The Hebrews had no idea of going to such lengths when they began.

Again Moses appears in the lovely role of the mediator. Humble and disinterested, forgiving and patriotic, his mouth was full of arguments to God in behalf of sinners. He prevailed.

Too late Israel repented their refusal to enter the land of promise. They added the sin of presumption to that of unbelief and rebellion. The next day, without the arm or Presence, or their leaders, they hurled themselves against the Amalekites and Canaanites. As well might Adam and Eve have thrown themselves upon the angel's cimeter, flashing every way, at the gate of a lost paradise.

How to Make This the Best Year in Our Society's History.
(Led by the Pastor.)

John Stewart Mill says, "The worth of the State is the worth of the individuals who compose the State." The way to improve the whole is to improve the individual. Jesus is the ideal for all. Everything else in comparison to him is to be counted as "wreckage" and to be treated accordingly. To know Jesus—not as an historical personage merely, but as One who is the most potent Being in current life—one who survives in the ideals of purity, love, and service he has loosened in the world—this is the source of real, large, and lasting improvement.

The Sin of Moses and Aaron.
(The Story.)

It is a mistaken notion, wide of the mark, which pictures the pilgrim nation as a compacted army, marching in serried column. That would have been impossible. They scattered out widely, in groups or clans, in quest of pasture and water. Thus for a whole generation they had adjusted themselves, like bedouins or shepherds, to the topography of the district.

But now the long-drawn process—the preparation of Israel for Canaan—nears its end. The wilderness had been one great school house where they have suffered the discipline and learned the lessons which have fitted them to be pre-eminently the torch-bearing nation for the others which still sat in darkness. So a rendezvous is named and an assembly of the whole "congregation" is called, preparatory to an immediate passage into the land of promise. But an accident spoils it all.

That is a laconic but fateful remark, "There was no water." Millions of people and a water famine. Could anything be more untimely? Why this massing of the hosts in the dry season of mid-Summer? What better was this Promised Land than a mirage? It was even now fading from view, like a mystic oasis. Were not the people justified in criticism and complaint? Yes—if God had not paved the whole wilderness with his deliverances. They ought to have been able to anticipate the devout logic of David's psalm, "The Lord hath been mindful of us—he will bless us." Quiet communion with God and their own souls would have restored their self-possession. But instead they talked and fussed among themselves. Distrust, bitterness, criticism, as usual, was the result.

The worst of it all was that Moses himself had caught the subtle infection and had fallen into the very sin of the people. He lost poise and temper. He was to have performed a holy function, as a representative of God, before all the people. The act called for deliberate calmness, dignified carriage, well modulated voice. But instead, with the petulance of a spoiled child, he did the direct opposite of what he was commanded. Instead of addressing the rock, he took opportunity to upbraid the people. He was not told to strike the rock at all, but in his temper he struck it twice. However, though the spirit and method were so evil, God did not count it against the suffering hosts. The water gushed out in abundance for man and beast. Moses' public offense could not be condoned without lowering the moral tone of the whole people. The punishment was exemplary. He failed form of it was significant. He failed to reach the supreme object of his whole career—entrance with the people into the land of promise. Thus, in a singular and speaking way, God proved his deadly hatred of sin. He could not and would not overlook it even in the man who was dearer to Him than any other who walked the earth. He can not look upon the least degree of sin with the least degree of allowance.

The Teachers' Lantern.

The facility for the supply of water is in any instance a pretty exact gauge of the progress of civilization. There are silent tokens of the height reached by ancient Rome in the aqueducts that look like colossal caterpillars crawling across the Campagna.

The parenthetical statement that "Miriam died there" throws some light upon Moses' shameful lapse. He was naturally deeply affected by his sister's death. She was a remarkable woman. He felt the loss of his moral support.

Moses and Aaron did the right thing in the emergency. They did it at once. They went to God.

Aaron's rod was a familiar talisman. Very sight of it should have been enough to have restored immediate confidence. It was visible sign of the invisible and infinite Wonder-worker.

Incidentally, the necessity of correctly following the order of divine service is taught. Moses was explicitly directed to take the rod—assemble the congregation—address the rock. Instead of speaking to the rock he spoke to the people. Instead of a solemn address to the rock as the divine source of slaking the people's thirst, he rained blows upon the rock. His temper and violence were singularly unbecoming the sacred place and hour when God was deemed to be preeminently near.

The rock in the desert becomes the permanent and significant symbol of the means by which spiritual thirst is to be slaked. "They drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them, and that Rock was Christ." Jesus himself affirms his ability to satisfy the craving of the human soul, the strength of which is represented by the most peremptory of the physical demand, when He says, "I am the Water of Life."

Moses and Aaron lost their self-possession, which Ruskin declares to be greatest of all possessions. This is, in part, accounted for by the death of their sister. Miriam's musical and poetical temperament, as well as her other feminine qualities, were the solace and inspiration of her brothers. Just in the reaction caused by her death they were caught by an acutely trying incident. In anticipation of just such losses, it is a dictate of wisdom to acquire a reserve of moral strength in order to prevent an overdraft.

Missionary Essentials at Home and Abroad (IV) Going.

However men may believe or disbelieve in foreign missions, however they may condemn them on the ground of the conduct or alleged motives of individual missionaries or converts, they discount their own judgment in doing so. Aside from religious opinion, missions must now be recognized as a forceful element in the world movement of today. They are a means of introduction between Occidental civilization, which is virile, and Oriental, which is effete. For example, the Republic of China—the most astonishing revolution of our day—is directly treacable to foreign missions.

The first President was an actual convert. Common sense calls for a suspension of criticism, if it does not call for active co-operation.

GENERAL CONVENTION OF EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Some Impressions by a Member of Great Gathering Now in Session in the Cathedral of St. John, the Divine, in New York City—Criticism of Press Reports Made.

(By Rev. W. E. Cox.)

New York, Oct. 15.—Judging from letters received since I have been here at our convention, the impression of it which our people get from the secular press is a very imperfect one indeed, and, judging from the most of the New York papers I have seen, it is not to be wondered at.

They seem to bend their energies toward the making of a thrilling story, rather than the giving of a reliable statement of the simple facts as they are. For instance, the convention adopted a Canon making the office of Presiding Bishop elective, instead of having it pass automotically, as heretofore, to the oldest Bishop by right of seniority. This is a simple measure, of practical value, simply modifying the method of selecting an officer we have had for years. Imagine our amazement when a New York paper came out the following morning with a headline something like this: "A New Pope for America, in the Episcopal Church." In view of such stuff as that likely to go to my own home people, it occurs to me that a few notes taken by one participating in the convention, and with first hand knowledge of what is taking place, would be welcomed.

Of course, I cannot go much into detail, I can only mention a few things that indicate the general trend of the whole.

The first point of vital interest was the opening service, October 8th. The Cathedral of St. John the Divine was packed with people and a multitude had to be turned away, in spite of rain that fell steadily. Over a hundred Bishops entered in procession and were an imposing sight, but the procession was interfered with by the rain. The sermon, preached by Bishop Lawrence, of Massachusetts, was truly a great sermon on a great occasion. I hope to see it printed in full in our Diocesan church paper, and I also hope all our people will read it.

At night, on the same day, there was a Festival Service in the cathedral, consisting of choral "Evening Prayey", with a few special anthems in addition. The service was rendered by the combined choirs from Trinity church, Grace church, Trinity chapel, St. Agnes' chapel, St. James' and the Cathedral—about 230 voices. Further comment is unnecessary.

At the first business session on the afternoon of the eighth, the chief matter of interest was the election of a presiding officer. Two men were nominated—the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity church, New York, and the Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, the successor of Phillips Brooks as rector of Trinity church, Boston. Dr. Mann was elected by a small majority. The newspapers in glaring headlines reported this as a victory of the "Low Church" party over the "High Church" party. As in the report of "A New Pope for America," this was newspaper effort to report a thrilling story. I have not heard the slightest reference to "High Church" or "Low Church" on the floor of the convention nor in private conversation, except in these newspaper headlines. While individuals differ in matters of preference and opinion, as they have a perfect right to do, the convention impresses me as being at one in the desire and the purpose to further the work of the whole church in the wisest possible way.

The greater part of the business sessions thus far has been occupied in the presentation of various resolutions and memorials simply to get them before the convention and referred to the proper committees, final action to be taken later. Perhaps the most important of these is a resolution offered by the Rev. Dr. Manning, proposing to amend the constitution so that no change could be made in the Prayer Book, title page or elsewhere, except by two-thirds vote of the convention. This seemed to meet with general approval, and it was declared that there was no desire to change anything about the Prayer Book until it can be done with practical unanimity. This resolution affects specifically the question of the change of the name of the church and Dr. Manning declared that to be its special purpose and intent. I may add here that the change of name has not been discussed in the convention except on one occasion, then indirectly and incidentally. It will doubtless come up later for such consideration as the convention shall see fit to give it, but thus far it has been in the background; and while there may be some discussion of it later on, I do not think any action, certainly not any radical action, will be taken.

There have been several joint sessions of the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies, held in the Cathedral. The features of these sessions is the illuminating and inspiring addresses of the chief officers of the Board of Missions and of Bishops from the mission fields. The board reported for the past three years gifts to missions, including legacies and specials, of well over six million dollars. This generous support of our mission work focused attention upon the fact that many dioceses and many missionary districts as well as many individual parishes and missions have not been meeting their missionary apportionment. Bishop Brewer, of Montana, asked permission and time to speak, and, at the end of a stirring appeal, offered the following resolutions:

"Resolved: First, that it is the sense of this joint session that it is the first and bounden duty of every bishop to do his utmost to secure the meeting of the apportionment in his diocese or district, and that it shall be the duty of every rector and missionary to do his utmost to raise the apportionment in his parish or mission.

"Resolved: Second, that this joint session request the editor of The Spirit of Missions and the editors of all church papers to publish the foregoing resolution at the head of their editorial column in every issue for the next three years."

The first resolution was adopted unanimously and the second practically by a unanimous vote.

On the morning of the second day of the convention the Cathedral was packed with women for the triennial service of the Women's Auxiliary and the presentation of the triennial united thank offering for missions. The service was an inspiration and the offering was so large it took three able-bodied men to lift it up and place it on the altar, and it took two expert bank tellers until after midnight to count it. The amount of the offering was over $307,500. That afternoon Carnegie Hall was packed from pit to dome with women for another auxiliary meeting and various meetings have been held daily since then.

We of East Carolina have greatly missed our beloved bishop. Before the opening service he was taken ill, and is now in St. Luke's Hospital, adjoining the Cathedral grounds. While he has been seriously ill, we have been assured that his illness is not critical, and we have now very encouraging reports from the physicians in charge. May God grant him speedy recovery and length of days is our prayer.

D. D. D. In Hospitals; Standard Skin Cure

How many hospital patients, suffering the frightful itch, the raw scorching pain of skin disease, have been soothed to sleep by a soothing fluid washed in by the nurse's hands?

That fluid is the famous D. D. D. prescription for eczema.

THE SUPERVISING NURSE of one of our prominent Catholic institutions (name of nurse and institute on application), writes regarding a patient. "The disease had eaten her eyebrows away. Her nose and lips had become disfigured. Since the use of D. D. D. her eyebrows are growing, her nose and face have assumed their natural expression."

How many eczema sufferers are paying their doctors for regular treatment and are being treated with this same soothing, healing fluid?

DR. GEO. T. RICHARDSON frankly writes "D. D. D. is superior to anything I have ever found. Soft and soothing, yet a powerful agent."

To do the work, D. D. D. Prescription must be applied according to directions given in the pamphlet around every bottle. Follow these directions—and see!

And it certainly takes away the itch at once—the moment the liquid is applied. The skin is soothed—calmed—so thoroughly refreshed—delightfully cooled.

All druggists of standing have the famous specific as well as the efficient D. D. D. Skin Soap.

But we are so confident of the merits of this prescription that we will refund the purchase price of the first full size bottle if it fails to reach your case. You alone are to judge.
